Greystone Manor Preserves Farmland, Hosts Trust Picnic

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster Farmland Trust will announce today that more than 325 acres of prime farmland known as "Greystone Manor Farms" will be preserved in Manheim and Warwick Townships. The suprise announcement will be made at the Trust's 7th annual picnic to be held at Greystone located off Rt. 272 a mile south of Brownstown.

Paul Thibault, county commissioner and a member of the Agricultural Preserve Board, said, "This is a model farmland preservation project in which public/private partnerships can help implement the county's comprehensive plan."

According to Trust officials, the farm is owned by Ruth Stoltzfus and the Mike Stoltzfus Estate and includes a 600-head beef finishing operation. Ruth Stoltzfus will be preserving the large beef cattle operation started by her husband, HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The dairy industry continued to struggle this week with significant questions over policy and direction as it adjusts to an ever-changing business environment.

On top of that, unfavorable weather this year has added to the harsh outlook for those suffering from low dairy prices and high costs of production.

There were several announcements and events concerning the dairy industry this week.

Penn[illegible] Scholarships

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — PennAg Industries Association, a trade organization that represents Pennsylvania agribusinesses, is pleased to announce its 1997 PennAg Scholarship recipients. PennAg has awarded 10 scholarships this year, equalling $6,500.

The selected high school and college students received a $500 or $1000 educational scholarship to assist them with their college tuition. Applicants were evaluated on academic performance and college financial needs, said Samuel Sherk, PennAg's Director of Membership and Services.

PennAg members raised the money during its annual Divots for Degrees golf outing. In addition, agribusiness members made individual contributions toward

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Upcoming crop production estimates and gulf soybean bids getting the press in the grain and soybean trade this week. Prices highly mixed today in pre harvest season trade. Wheat 3 cents lower to 6 cents higher. Corn 2 to 4 cents higher. Sorghum 5 to 9 cents higher. Soybeans 5 to 16 cents lower. A break in wheat prices and export announcements showing some light. Price quotes and year to date export figures are both substantially below a year ago. This year's corn crop made, but cooler weather delaying drying and expansion of harvest. There will be no frost scarce price rally this year. No export announcements this week. Foreign business needs to pick up if those 9.2-9.5 billion bushel production estimates pan out, especially the high side figure. It is amazing how many trailer trucks one big new modern combine can keep busy hauling corn, but this crop is not in the barn yet. Estimated bean production guesses are not getting as much attention at corn. Most experts are just saying record crop and bemoaning expected price breaks by peak harvest. Gulf bids dropped 73 cents in the past three days and some crushers are dropping basis 75 to 80 cents in the next 15 days. However, carry over stocks at/or near record low levels. Also, the bean is a multi faceted producing little vegetable with numerous by-products and usage increases each year. After pressing financial obligations are satisfied more than usual large numbers of farmers are contemplating storage. At what price level holding sets in varies in a wide range from producer to producer depending on what farm advisors, extension people, bankers, tax man, neighbor and wife recommends.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was limited. Offerings of 3 pound and heavier weights were readily available and difficult to clear. 2.5 pound sizes were in short supply. Live supplies remained at least moderate; weights were often heavier than desired. Processing schedules were moderate to heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were 1 cent lower at 57 to 71 cents. Trade sentiment was weak and unsettled. In the parts complex, wings were short of full needs. Other items were at least adequate for a generally lackluster buying interest, particulary breast cuts which were burdensome.

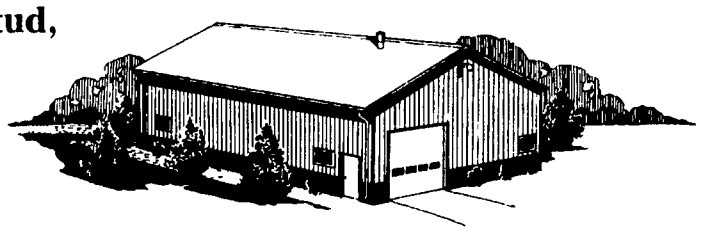
The Building you want.
The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost And call your Telmark representative

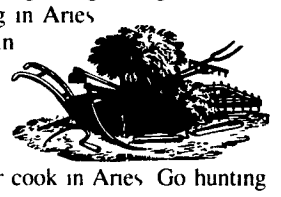
The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

SEPTEMBER 15-21, 1997

FULL HARVEST MOON, SEPT. 16.

MOON SIGNS

Astrologically, this week starts in the zodiac sign of Pisces for September 15 and 16, moves to Aries for two days, goes on to Taurus for the 19th and 20th, and finishes on the 21st in Gemini — water, fire, earth, and air (The astronomical position of the Moon is different.) For those who figure by the Moon signs, this week's zodiac suggests transplanting or grafting during the Pisces period, weeding and plowing in Aries or Gemini, and fall sowing in Taurus. If the house needs painting, dry Aries (fire) is the time. Wean or quit bad habits beginning in Pisces at the start of the week. Bake or cook in Aries. Go hunting in Taurus.



Lady Moon, Lady Moon, where are you roving?

TIP OF THE WEEK

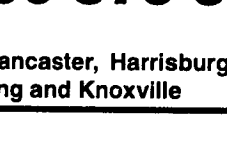
BLACKBERRY CRAB-APPLE JELLY

4 quarts crab apples
1 quart blackberries
water
sugar (1 cup to each cup of juice)

Wash, quarter, and remove stems of crab apples. Rinse berries. Place both in an enamel or stainless steel saucepan and add enough water to just show. Do not float the fruit. Cook until fruit is soft. Strain through a jelly bag, and discard everything but the juice. Simmer another 5 minutes, straining off any froth. Measure juice, add sugar in equal parts, and bring to about 210° F, until the jelly drips from a spoon in sheets. Fill hot, sterilized jelly jars, and cover with 1/8 inch of paraffin.



Makes 6 to 8 jars of jelly.

The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

Spider webs floating at autumn sunset bring a night frost, you may bet.

Listen to the katydid. When its chirp goes from "Katy-did" to "Katy," there will be a frost in ten days.

A HEALTHY START IS WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.

Get your wheat off to a healthy start with the superior protection of Dividend®/Apron XL™ seed treatment that provides

- Broad spectrum control of seed- and soil-borne diseases, including Pythium
- Allows wheat to reach its maximum yield potential
- Less irritating to skin and eyes than other seed treatments
- Safe to wheat seedlings. Will not slow down germination and emergence under no-till and late planting

Try a program approach with Dividend/Apron XL seed treatment and Tilt® foliar for the highest yield. Ask your seedsman for Dividend/Apron XL.

OPINION

We Love Milk!

Everyone knows that everyone loves milk. Well, maybe not everyone. But the Dairy-L chat group on the internet recently had a thing going where farmers from many different countries would post the way they say "I love milk" in their native language. Here are some of the responses.

In Danish: Jeg elsker maelk (really the "a & e" should be into one letter, an extra letter in Danish.)

In Thai: Chan shob nom (compliments of a Thai foreign exchange student).

In Spanish: Me gusta la leche; Yo amo la leche; or Yo quiero la leche.

In French: J-aime le lait; or more sophisticated J'adore le lait.

In Mandarin Chinese, using the Roman alphabet rather than characters: Wo ai nuinai.

In Japanese: Gyunyu ga suki desu.

In Afrikaans: Ek Hou Van Melk.

In Zulu: Ngithanda Ubisi.

In German: Ich Liebe Milch.

In Catalan: M'agrada la llet.

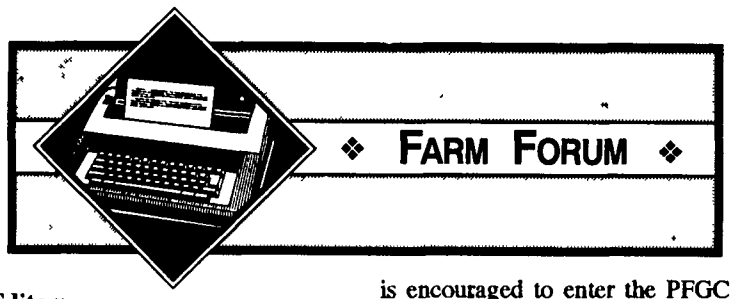
In Dutch: Ik Hou Van Melk.

In Indonesian: Saya Suka Susu.

We found this an interesting and very international little exercise that helps solidify what we have all known for a long time: people love milk in any language. And it also reemphasizes a common denominator to bring all people together as neighbors in this shrinking global world that we live in.

"We love milk!"



Editor:

Dairymen in Pennsylvania have had a tough year with weather related problems, low milk prices and other crises to face. At this time we need to look at the "big picture" and give thanks for our natural, home grown forages, corn silage, baled hay and pasture. Dairymen and beef producers today know that the growth, harvest and storage of high quality forage is critical to the productivity and profitability of their dairy or livestock operation.

The Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council has an opportunity for PA forage producers to share the successes of their forage program with other forage producers here in Pa and also with forage producers around North America. Any forage producer that is interested in telling the story of forages is encouraged to enter the PFGC Forage Spokesperson Contest, to be held on Tuesday, November 18 in Tunkhannock as part of the 1997 PFGC Forage Conference.

Interested persons should contact Mike Galbraith of the PFGC to nominate someone, or to nominate themselves:

Phone: 800-238-1037, Ext. #138 · FAX 814-793-4581

Mail: Young's, P.O. Box 71, Roaring Spring, PA 16673

Internet: Mike Galbraith@Cargill.Sprint.com.

Forage producers who are interested should provide the following information by October 4, 1997.

*Spokesperson: Name, address and phone/FAX number.

To Avoid Telemarketing Fraud

Telemarketing fraud is increasing, according to Dr Robert Thee, Lancaster County Family Resource Extension Agent There are many scams being developed that are designed to secure your credit card numbers and credit history Telemarketing fraud is a crime and fraudulent callers are criminals Do not fall for a phony pitch You should hang up immediately if the person calling you does any of the following If the person wants money for a prize you are told you have won If the caller asks for your credit card or bank account number If the caller offers, for a fee, to recover money you have previously lost If the caller insists you make an immediate decision and If the caller offers to send a courier to take your check

To Learn About Homestead Exemption

On November 4, Pennsylvania voters will decide whether a method of real property tax relief, called homestead exemptions, should be allowed in Pennsylvania Currently prohibited by the Pennsylvania Constitution, homestead exemptions are a way of targeting real property tax relief to homeowners and other taxpayers A homestead exemption allows certain properties, such as homes, to receive preferential treatment under the real property tax. If approved during the November election, the Homestead Exemption Amendment would change the Pennsylvania Constitution to make homestead exemptions possible To better understand the Homestead Exemption Amendment, Dr Timothy Kelsey, Penn State associate professor of agricultural economics, has developed a brochure to explain the amendment, what it does and does not do and the implications of your vote Your local Penn State Cooperative Extension office can secure a copy of this publication for you

To Control Johne's Disease

Johne's disease is a devastating dairy disease that is best controlled by preventive management, according to Judy Stabel, USDA National Animal Disease Center The disease is usually picked up by dairy calves but does not become evident until they are two to five years old Meanwhile, production and reproductive performance begins dropping. The cows lose weight and they spread the disease Calves get infected by their mothers before birth, through contact with manure contaminated food (hay and grass) and by drinking milk from infected cows Farmers need to follow these herd hygiene Move new calves away from dams as soon as possible Isolate calves to minimize contact with adult cows and their manure Feed milk replacer or colostrom from cows known to be free of Johne's Isolate purchased replacement heifers from calves and Evaluate your manure handling habits to prevent disease spread through contaminated tools and equipment Because of possible human health issues, this disease uncontrolled could have the biggest impact on milk sales To protect your business, start eliminating Johne's from your herd

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 55
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 49:8-13

The Godfather, both as a novel and a series of movies, put into our language an expression that endures, "I'll make you an offer you can't refuse."

Actually, the best offer we can get in life is the kind that we not only can refuse, but often do. Our problem is often that we know we want something, but don't quite know what it is we want. There's an emptiness in ourselves and we want to fill it with something. But what?

Very often that which we seek fo fill the void within is a thing of some kind, a material object. Our problem is that we want immediate gratification and things may very nicely fill the void for a little while. The thing may be a symbol of success — a new car, a bigger house, a better job. Even other people can be the things with which we try to fill the emptiness. But have you ever noticed how none of these things really satisfy us for the long haul. All of them fade, tarnish or wear out — but the hunger within us, never!

What all of us seek — even if we don't realize it — is something to permanently fill the voids in our lives. But what can do that for us? Ah, that's the question and how elusive the answer is for so many of us.

COSTS A BUNDLE

A cartoon I clipped from a newspaper several years ago shows a wise man or guru sitting atop a very steep mountain. Standing before him is a man who has crawled to the top and asked him a question. "Yes," replies the wise man, "I have the answer to the meaning of life, but it's going to cost you a bundle!"

Many of us suspect that, whatever the answer is, it is going to cost us a bundle. It can only be purchased with material goods and it is going to be very, very expensive — perhaps more than we can ever scrape together.

So, God comes to us with an offer we can, but ought not refuse: "Ho, every one who thirsts, come to the waters; and he who has no money, come, buy, and eat! Come, buy wine and milk without money and without price" (Isaiah 55:1). What an offer! It's better than winning the lottery, the Irish Sweepstakes, or a prize from Ed McMahon — all material things.

FOOD THAT'S NOT BREAD

But God's offer is not about material things. It will not necessarily bring instant gratification. It is about eternal realities and an ultimate gratification that is lasting. And because God's offer does not satisfy our aspiration for things, we tend to be suspicious of it and disregard it. The very offer we need and long for is the one we reject or ignore. So, God asks us, "Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which does not satisfy: "Incline your ear, and come to me; hear, that your soul may live" (55:3).

The offer God makes is the world's only really "Free" offer. We can have it without exchanging things for it or accumulating a pile of money to pay for it. Now that's an offer we shouldn't refuse! But will we?

Although the offer from God is a free offer, it doesn't mean that the promise is automatic. We can't pay for it — that's grace — but we have to accept it. God doesn't slip his promise into our hip pockets for us to discover at a later time. If we are to take advantage of his offer, we have to put out our hands to receive it. And to receive it, it takes repentance. "Seek the Lord while he may be found, call upon him while he is near; let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, that he may have mercy on him, and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon" (55:6,7).

It is the best offer any of us will ever get. But it takes an RSVP to get it.

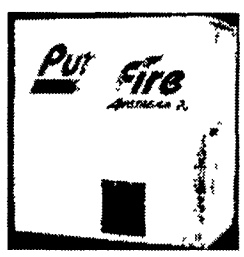
HEATING

AIRSTREAM ventilation systems — Pur-a-fire

Agricultural Heaters

models from 40,000 BTU to 225,000 BTU



The Purafire heater provides a consistent, cleanburning and fuel efficient source of warmth for all types of poultry and swine houses With near 100% efficiency, it uses less engery to yield greater BTUs for your money

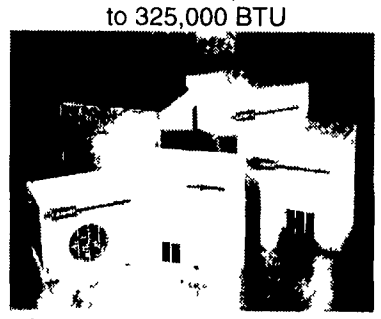
models from 15,000 BTU to 325,000 BTU



With an L B White pilot heater you get the dependability of a time proven design plus the safety standards you d expect from an industry leader So your animals stay warm and you don t have to spend time worrying about their safety

Hog Hearth Systems

With AP s Hog Hearth System energy costs are reduced drastically Compared to conventional heat lamps which use 250 wattts our Hog Hearth System uses a maximum of 55 watts

Unlike all other heat mats or heat lamps used in the market today, our hog hearth system has 4 square feet of optimum consistent heat area With the modulating controller reducing wattage as the room temperature increases you are once again saving energy costs

Our virtually indestructible heating element will not burn out and provides up to a 30° heat rise uniformly throughout the mat surface

TC4-1VH Controller

The sealed mat constructed of highly insulated, fiberglass, reinforced plastic is stationary for your convenience and makes pressure washing easy

Shenandoah Gas Brooders

vertical venturi premixes air and gas for efficient burning
14010003 30,000 BTU GB-UV 4' canopy
14010005 30,000 BTU GB-Z70 3' canopy

'Sculpted' Hog Grabs Judge's Attention At Denver

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — A "super athletic-looking" hog that appeared to be "sculpted out of piece of marble or something," according to the judge, won supreme champion market swine Tuesday evening at the Denver Fair.

The 250-pound supreme gilt was exhibited by Patrick Good, 18, to his first Denver swine championship.

Show judge Larry Arnold, Womelsdorf, chose the medium heavyweight division winner to supreme champion, a black gilt that exemplifies one of those "real trendy kind of hogs," the words used in the industry today, he noted. Those kinds of hogs, Arnold indicted, generally "hand up good carcasses — are really lean."

Patrick, son of Amos and Patricia Good, Lititz, is a senior at Warwick. He exhibited a crossbred Hampshire/Yorkshire gilt obtained from Oscar Manbeck, Bethel.

Arnold chose the reserve champion exhibited by Kyle Fleener, heavyweight division winner. Kyle, who won last year's reserve champion at the fair, showed a 265-pound barrow, a Hampshire crossbred. The hog was obtained from Jim Parlett, Airville.

Kyle, 13, son of Tim and Sarah Fleener, Robesonia, is in the 8th grade at Elco Middle School. He said that he often exercises the hogs. He said his dad helped pick out the hog at the Parlett sale.

In the showmanship competition, Dean Livengood took senior champion, intermediate champion went to Kyle Fleener, and junior champion went to Chescey Hoover.

In all, there were a total of 12 exhibitors and 21 hogs at the third annual swine show. Following is a list of show placings.

Greystone Manor Preserves

the late Mike Stoltzfus, former owner of D.M. Stoltzfus Quarry.

Through the cooperation of the Lancaster Farmland Trust, county Ag Preserve Board, the transferable development rights (TDR) funds from Manheim Township, and the first-ever general appropriation from Warwick Township, negotations were accomplished. Stoltzfus is not being paid the full appraised value of the development rights — she is voluntarily donating a significant portion of the value of those development rights.

In a press release issued by the Trust, it was noted that Nelson Rohrer, chairman of the Manheim Township board of commissioners, said, "Manheim Township is very pleased to be included with the Farmland Trust, Ag Preserve Board, and Warwick Township in furthering the goal of agricultural preservation in the county."

Phyllis C. Whitesell, board of trustees president for the Trust, said, "We are especially pleased at the preservation of this farm, the largest farm in the county to be preserved to date. Its location, close to developing areas around Lancaster city, is extremely significant in terms of furthering preservation efforts."

"The preservation of this farm highlights the critical issue of the preservation of productive farmland in Lancaster County," noted Thomas D. Stouffer, executive director of the Trust. "Given the World Monuments Watch's recent designation of Lancaster County as one of the top 100 Most Endangered Sites, this event has special significance."

According to farm manager Pip Ravegum, in addition to tours and other activities related to the preservation membership picnic, supper will be served at 3:30 p.m. in a 7,000-square foot farm implement shed, one of several on the property. Ravegum was busy last week readying the area for the picnic.

The farm is not new to playing host to visitors. Ravegum recalls a time, nearly a decade or so ago, when 300 people, all members of the National Cattlemen's Association, came from every state in the Union except Hawaii to tour the farm. The national group convened at the Hershey Convention Center and toured Greystone Manor Farms later in the day.

At the beef farm, cattle arrive from sales in Virginia and West Virginia at 750-900 pounds and are sold to Dunlap's in Lancaster, Truth Packing in Baltimore, and Moyer Packing in Souderton.

The Stoltzfus family owns two other farms in addition to the original farm off of Rt. 272. Altogether, the farms include 330 acres of corn, 30 acres of wheat, 80 acres of alfalfa hay, 25 acres of grass hay, and 35 acres in pasture.

The home farm boasts a homestead with two-foot thick stone walls constructed in 1775, noted Ravegum. The original farm is more than 200 years old.

At Greystone Manor Farms, there are a total of three full-time employees, in addition to Pip Ravegum. They include Henry Ravegum, Don Montgomery, and Ed Heft.

Karen M. Weiss, director of land preservation for the Lancaster Farmland Trust, noted that a lot of family fun is planned for the picnic. The event includes softball and volleyball games, children's activities, a catered dinner featuring a pig roast courtesy of former Rep. Terry Sheetz, watermelons donated by Nelson Rohrer, and homemade vanilla ice cream made on the premises by an old-fashioned hit 'n' miss engine by an Amish farmer who is a Trust member. There will also be an apple pie eating contest, hay wagon rides around the farm, and music by Summitt Hill Bluegrass.

The home farm boasts a homestead with two foot stone walls constructed in 1775, noted Ravegum. The original farm is more than 200 years old.

A few tickets will be on sale the day of the picnic at the farm, according to Melissa Cauler, development assistant for the Trust. Cost for the picnic is $12 a person, age 9 and older. Children 3-8 cost $6 each. Children 2 and under are free. The public is invited to attend.

Greystone Manor "is a showcase farm, very well recognized in all of northern Lancaster County," said Karen Weiss. The farm is also one of the largest farms so close to the city of Lancaster itself — easy commuting distance for Farmland Trust members, family, and friends.

The picnic will provide an opportunity for members and the public to "learn how the Trust works," Weiss said. Information will be available about farmland preservation in the county.

rmland, Hosts Trust Picnic

Ravegum recalls a time, nearly a decade or so ago, when 300 people, all members of the National Cattlemen's Association, came from every state in the Union except Hawaii to tour the farm. Today, in addition to tours and other activities at the farm, supper will be served at 3:30 p.m.

Ravegum also noted there will be tractors on display from major manufacturers, in addition to a small flock of llamas.

Weiss noted there are 12 farms "on track" for preservation this year. The Trust, established in 1988, includes four full- time and one part-time staff person. There are a total of 290 farms preserved in the county, amounting to more than 25,000 acres.

"PennAg has been awarding educational scholarships since 1991," comments Sherk. "Since then, we have contributed $28,500 in scholarships, with nearly 40 students having already benefited from the scholarship program."

Six high school students, who are beginning a four-year bachelors degree program this fall, were awarded PennAg scholarships. These recipients are as follows:

Brenton Good, of Ephrata, received a $1000 PennAg scholarship. Having graduated from Ephrata High School this spring, he will be attending Messiah College, Grantham. Good will major in art with a concentration in illustration.

Preston Hoover, of Lebanon, is a 1997 graduate of Annville-Cleona High School. A $500 scholarship recipient, he will major in mass communications at Ithaca College, Ithaca, N.Y.

Mindy Oplinger, of Irwin, will be attending Westmoreland County Community College this fall. Oplinger is a 1997 graduate of Penn Trafford High School. She was awarded a $500 scholarship.

Having received a $1000 PennAg scholarship, April Rockwell, of Canton, will be attending Pennsylvania State University, University Park. She will work toward a bachelor of arts degree in special education. Rockwell graduated from Canton Area Junior/Senior High School this past June.

Kristen Slepecki, of Oakdale, graduated from West Allegheny High School and will be attending Fairmont State College, Fairmont, W. Va., this fall. She will study international business/criminal justice. Slepecki was awarded a $500 scholarship.

Craig Weirich, of Mountville, is a $1000 PennAg scholarship recipient. Attending DeVry Institute of Technology, Columbus, OH, this fall, he will be majoring in electronics engineering technology. Weirich is a 1997 Hempfield High School graduate.

The following college students received a $500 PennAg scholarship:

A 1994 Hempfield High School graduate, Kirk Englert, of Mount Joy, attends the University of Pittsburgh, in Pittsburgh, and is majoring in mechanical engineering.

Katie Evanchalk, of Pine Grove, graduated from Pine Grove High School in 1995. She is a Delaware Valley College, Doylestown, student who is working towared a bachelor of science degree in agribusiness.

Kevin Slepecki, of Oakdale, is a 1996 graduate of West Allegheny High School who is now attending Albright College, in Reading. Slepecki is working toward a double major: computer science and business administration.

Thea Stockdale, of Waynesburg, attends Clarion University of Pennsylvania, Clarion, and is majoring in anthropology and art. She graduated from Waynesburg Central High School in 1993.

PennAg Industries Association, founded in 1878 with headquarters in Ephrata, Lancaster County, is a non-profit Pennsylvania trade organization with approximately 450 state members. The organization provides lobbying, insurance, publications and printing services to its members.

Hayes To Speak At Opening Of Ag Law Center

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Pennsylvania's Secretary of Agriculture, Samuel E. Hayes Jr., will speak on Tuesday, September 16 at a ceremony opening The Agriculture Law Research and Education Center at The Dickinson School Of Law. The Center is a collaborative venture of the Law School and Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Hayes will join law school officials, invited guests, and the public at the 1 p.m. ceremony at the Law School, 150 South College Street, Carlisle.

The Ag Center is one of only several in the nation located at law schools. Dickinson became affiliated with Penn State on July 1, becoming The Dickinson School of Law of The Pennsylvania State University.

The Center is designed to provide leadership in the research and dissemination of information about agricultural-related issues to agricultural producers, food processors, government officials, and the general public, among other groups. It will serve as a resource center for professional articles and extension outreach materials and provide courses, information, and assistance to the general public and other interested groups.

"We are very excited about the opening of the Center because it is illustrative of the kind of interdisciplinary collaboration that is possible through our new affiliation with The Pennsylvania State University," said Center Director Christine Kellett, an associate dean and professor at the Law School.

Open Class Market Lamb Champions Selected

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — A 128-pound crossed Suffolk snagged the grand champion market lamb banner in open class competition at the York Fair Sheep show for exhibitor Melissa Trostle, Red Lion.

Handler of the champion, John Eaton Jr., dubbed the solid, well-muscled winner "Prudential," because "it handles like a rock."

Reserve champion winner honors went to junior exhibitor Adam Sellers, Thomasville.

Agriculture Secretary Reports On Avian Influenza

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. this week presented a preliminary report to the state General Assembly that said the value of depopulated flocks and products destroyed because of the avian influenza is more than $1.5 million.

Hayes' report noted that a total of 16 layer flocks containing approximately 1.75 million birds were found to be infected with the avian influenza, leading to a quarantine in May of a 75-mile area in northwestern Lancaster County.

"We are deeply appreciative of the response of the Legislature to Gov. Tom Ridge's request for $5 million to defray costs associated with this threat to the poultry industry," Hayes said.

"When Gov. Ridge signed the bill in June, we promised to give periodic reports on our efforts to contain the situation and to help compensate producers for their loss.

"The outbreak has been emotionally and financially difficult for the poultry industry. We are in the seventh week without a new incidence of the virus, but I am not ready to declare victory. Our previous experience with avian influenza in 1983-84 warns us that fall season could witness a very virulent and devastating return of the virus."

Ten of the infected flocks totaling about 750,000 birds were destroyed.

The cost of depopulation, disposal, cleaning and disinfecting and other costs necessary to be released from quarantine is about $200,000. Additional diagnostic testing and surveillance is approximately $175,000. Nearly $60,000 was spent on additional equipment for testing.

The department has ordered four million doses of vaccine at a cost of $120,000. Although the vaccine is currently being manufactured, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has not given permission for it to be used.

The cost to the industry for marketing and production losses has not yet been assessed, Hayes said.

The report cites the continued need for bio-security measures to guard against future outbreaks and to help protect the poultry industry from suffering such devastating losses in the future.

Bucks Announces Lamb Winners

WRIGHTSTOWN (Bucks Co.) — Tracy Kimbel of Jamison showed the grand champion lamb at the Bucks County 4-H Market Lamb Roundup recently at the Middletown Grange Fair.

Her 142-pound purebred Suffolk lamb was purchased at the auction by Worthington Racing Stables of Langhorne for $475.

Doug Pike of Quakertown had the reserve champion. Univest Corporation of Pennsylvania paid $460 for Doug's 113-pound Suffolk lamb.

In all, 30 4-H members showed and sold their project lambs. The sale averaged $250/head with the champions and $235/head when the champions weren't included. The judge was Greg Snyder of Lancaster.

Flinchbaugh Sweeps York Fair Junior Sheep Breeding Show

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Jen Flinchbaugh made a clean sweep of the York Fair's junior sheep breeding show, snagging both the supreme ram and supreme ewe titles with her Southdown homebred entries.

The pair of champions were the lynchpins of the 16-year-old, York 4-H'ers 15-head showstring, and from a line of longtime, including national, show winners. Also penned as part of her fair-exhibit flock were the well-matched duo that won Jen the reserve champion pairs title in the market classes. Capping off the veteran junior's successful fair run were her champion wins in both the fitting and showmanship competitions. Reserve champion fitter was Michael Burrell and reserve champion showman was Drew Bankert.

In the Shepherd's bred and owned classes, Adam Sellers took champion honors and Jen Flinchbaugh was the reserve champion. Blocking and grooming top awards were shared by Paul Kitzmiller, champion, and Michael Burrell, reserve.

Angus Tops York Fair Junior Beef Breeding Contest

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — A junior yearling Angus heifer exhibited by Jessica Harcourt, Spring Grove, was selected as supreme champion of the York Fair's junior beef breeding show. The February 1996 heifer topped three other breed champions for the title. Contenders for the supreme banner were Amanda Daugherty's champion Hereford, Raymond Stough's Simmental breed winner and Kelly Hain's Red Angus, winner of the Other Breeds class.

Raymond Stough, Spring Grove was selected champion fitter, while Bobbi Myers, Thomasville was named the reserve fitter. Showmanship honors were shared by Tammi Grubb, Hanover, the champion, and reserve champion Herman Hake, Etters.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Pa. DHIA continues to be on the forefront of technology as well as being the industry's leader in milk urea nitrogen testing with 24 percent of all cows on a Pa. DHIA testing plan using the MUN technology to further monitor their herd's performance.

The MUN committee met on Sept. 3 at the Penn State Days Inn located in downtown State College. Marketing strategies was the forefront of the agenda.

The committee decided it was essential to the Pa. DHIA membership that continual education of MUN testing be offered in workshop and article forms.

Also, in order to accommodate an overwhelming amount of new interest in the product in southeast Pennsylvania, a milk urea nitrogen workshop will be held at Yoder's Family Restaurant, Route 23, East of New Holland at 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sept. 18, 1997.

Both transportation and lunch will be provided. All dairy farmers, nutritionists, veterinarians and others interested in the dairy industry are invited to attend. All dairymen are welcome to bring their MUN herd management records and current feed ration.

Featured speakers for this working workshop include Dr. Jim Ferguson, New Bolton Center, University of Pennsylvania and George Cudoc, Marburger Dairy, Evans City.

Please feel free to contact Dean Amick at 1-800-344-8378 if you may need transportation to attend this informative workshop.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Corn, No.2y — 2.985 bu., 5.343 cwt.

Wheat, No. 2 — 3.29 bu., 5.494 cwt.

Barley, No. 3 — 2.04 bu., 4.366 cwt.

Oats, No. 2 — 1.69 bu., 5.281 cwt.

Soybeans, No. 1 — 7.08 bu., 11.824 cwt.

Ear Corn — 83.688 ton, 4.184 cwt.

Alfalfa Hay — 146.25 ton, 7.313 cwt.

Mixed Hay — 134.00 ton, 6.7 cwt.

Crossbred Steer Grand Champion At York

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

Topping the crossbred show, Tammie Grubb, Hanover, had her 1,212 pound entry named Creo go on to be selected grand champion of the show. The champion came from the light heavy weight class.

Hope Long's 1,215 pound crossbred steer named Judd followed the champion in class and was named reserve champion of the breed show and reserve grand champion of the show. Hope's family moved from Lancaster County to Airville this year so this was her first time showing at York Fair.

In the Angus breed show, Suzanne Bishard, Seven Valleys, had the champion, and Cory Thompson, Wellsville, had the reserve champion.

In the Hereford show, Donald Sunday, York, had the champion and Amanda Daughtery, York, had the reserve champion.

In the Simmental show, Stephanie Biggerstaff, Berks, had the champion, and Bobbie Myers, Thomasville, had the reserve champion.

There was one Limousin entry shown by Jamie Welsh. Judge for the show was Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester County livestock agent.

ANGUS, Class 1, 1. & 2. Jamie Reid; 3. Tammi Grubb.

Class 2, 1. Cory Thomnpson; 2. Bobbie Myers; 3. Herman Hake.

Class 3, 1. Suzanne Bishard; 2. Brett Bishard; 3. Jeffrey Keifer.

Class 4, 1. Kurt Long; 2. Jay Rishel; 3. Amy Trowbridge.

HEREFORD, Class 1, 1. Travis Reid; 2. Donald Sunday.

Supreme Breeding Sheep Champions Named At York

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

YORK - The highlight of the breeding sheep show at York Fair each year is the crowning of the supreme champion ram and ewe. This event traditionally is held Monday evening.

This year the grand champion ram was John's Pride, the champion Cheviot shown by Triple J Acres, owned by John and Janet Eaton, Windsor. The Eaton family also showed the champion Cheviot ewe and the champion Dorset ewe.

Bruce Snyder, Kutztown, had the champion Dorset ram.

Matt Trostle, Red Lion, had the champion Hampshire ram and the champion Southdown ram. Jennifer Flinchbaugh, York, showed the champion Southdown ewe.

Charles Drenning, Woodsboro, Md., showed the champion Montadale ram and ewe and the champion Natural Colored ewe. Randy Irwin, Freeland, Md., showed the champion Natural Colored ram.

In the Suffolk show, Troy Ness, Felton, showed both the champion ram and ewe.

Uoan Harris, Kimberton, showed the champion Shropshire ram, and Kristina Stern, Fawn Grove, showed the champion Shropshire ewe.

Denny Haugh, Red Lion, showed the Other Breeds champion ram, and Florance and Harry Clower, Maurertown, Va., showed the champion Other Breeds ewe.

Margeaux Firestine showed the supreme champion ewe at the York Fair. Sister Morgan and Judge Richard Kuyemchak share the honors.

BOB FRANCIS
International Silo Assn.

With all the planning, labor, and money that's gone into your silage crop, DON'T GET ANXIOUS AND CUT IT TOO EARLY!!

You planted corn for silage because of the high nutrient yield per acre and this is another year when you want to get the very highest yield possible.

Immature corn produces a lot of soggy, sour silage that's low in feed value. You may get a lot of weight with this green silage, but you will be limiting the total feed value available from your corn acreage.

Forages stored above 65% moisture will weep, causing loss of nutrients and damage to the silo, the unloader, and feeding equipment. Feeds containing more than 70% moisture provide an excellent environment for harmful bacteria growth and production of undesirable acids, resulting in lowered palatability. As your silage approaches 80% moisture, the total weight stored in your silo nearly doubles. This causes extreme stress on the structure and may result in silo collapse. In other words, a silo that was designed to hold 500 tons of silage would be under extreme stress if you loaded it with 1,000 tons of wet, heavy feed.

Because of the cool weather in many parts of the East this year, the corn crop in most areas will be a few days to a few weeks late maturing. It will be very easy to cut your feed too early if you are accustomed to begin harvesting according to the calendar. Check you crop closely this year to be sure it is indeed ready. As your corn matures, it increases in total dry weight and most of this increase is in the ear; the very heart of your silage.

The general recommended moisture content for forage being placed in a conventional top-unloading silo is in the range of 55% to 65%. Forages, especially hay, stored in a bottom-unloading silo should be 50% moisture, or less. The moisture content for high-moisture grains should be in the range of 25% to 32%.

Please consult you State Extension Service, or the Silo Operator's Manual from the International Silo Association.

Hereford, Angus Champs Share York Fair Supreme Beef Honors

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — A Lancaster County Hereford bull bested a field of breed champion beef contenders to take supreme champion honors in the York Fair's open class beef breeding show. Supreme heifer was the breed champion Angus junior heifer.

"Salunga Yankee 19D" took the banner for Mt. Joy breeders George and Dorothy Metzler. The homebred Yankee is from the 125-head brood cow registered Hereford herd at Salunga Acres and a headliner in their upcoming production sale to be held November 1 at the farm. A January 1996 born bull, Yankee has been racking up a string of show successes for Salunga Acres this season and topped the breed show at the recent Maryland State Fair.

Supreme champion heifer was "South Branch Wanda 604," the Angus breed champion exhibited by Suzanne Bishard, York. She is a January 1996 heifer and was bred at South Branch Farms, York. Wanda is also in the midst of a successful show year, standing well in recent competition at both Georgia and at the Eastern region national shows.

Following is a partial list of breed champion results in the open class beef breeding show:

Members To Vote By Dec.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Consoldition discussions by four of the nation's largest dairy marketing cooperatives took a major step this week when the corporate boards of the organizations voted to present the terms of consoldition to their memberships.

A favorable response would lead the to the formation of a new dairy marketing cooperative to be named Dairy Farmers of America (DFA). DFA would market about 21 percent of the nation's milk supply.

The consolidation, targeted for Jan. 1, 1998, depends upon the successful vote within each cooperative. The voting process is to be completed by Dec. 1, 1997.

DFA's objective is to enhance economies of scale and to expand markets for member milk. Cooperatives involved in the consolidation are Mid-America Dairymen Inc. (Mid-Am) of Springfield, Mo.; Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI) of Strongsville, Ohio; Western Dairymen Cooperative Inc. (WDCI) of Thorton, Colo., and Salt Lake City, Utah; and the Southern Region of Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI) of Arlington, Texas.

Thompson Tops Junior Steer Show

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Cory Thompson appeared stunned and wide-eyed for the first few seconds after the rump of his 4-H market steer was slapped as the York Fair junior steer show's grand champion. Then, the 10-year-old, showing for his second year, regained his composure, grinned and led his winning "Buddy" around the arena to the applause of the crowd. The 1,165-pound Angus steer had earlier topped its medium weight division class for the Wellsville junior 4-H'er.

Centre County Dairy Show

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) — The Centre County Junior Dairy Show was held Aug. 23 here at the Grange Fairgrounds. Members of Centre County 4-H Club, Mt. Nittany 4-H Dairy Club, and State College, Bellefonte, and Penns Valley FFA clubs made up the 98 total entrants.

Type judge for this year's show was Tom McCulley, a dairy farmer from Lancaster County. Maranda Dum from Perry County was the showmanship judge. She is a student at Penn State.

Charles Liner was also the owner of the senior champion/grand champion Brown Swiss, 6-year-old Wind Mill Dione Impact Mary. 4-H member Tammi Deibler of Boalsburg was the owner of the junior champion/reserve grand champion, Victory Acres Emory Jewel, a fall calf. 4-H member Keri Connelly of Pennsylvania Furnace exhibited the reserve junior champion, Rivervale Belle. The reserve senior champion, Liners Jetway Mary Dixie, was exhibited by Charles Liner.

Josh Kellerman, a first-year 4-H'er, Centre Hall, was the owner of the senior champion/grand champion Jersey, Four Springs Imperial Jaclynn, a junior 2-year-old. Jessica McMurtie of Pleasant Gap, also a 4-H member, was the owner of the reserve senior champion/reserve grand champion Jersey, EDN-RU Starbuck Ringo Starr, a senior 2-year-old. Josh was also the owner of the junior champion, Four Springs Counciller Crystal. Josh's older sister, 4-H member, Jennifer Kellerman, showed the reserve junior champion, Four Springs Juno Blanche.

Mary Anne Clouser of Madisonburg, an FFA member, was the proud owner of the grand champion/reserve grand champion Milking Shorthorns. The grand champion was Gladell Hillary, a junior 3-year-old and Gladell Mandie, and 8-year-old

PMMB Sets Emergency Hearing

On Wednesday at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Building in Harrisburg, during its regular monthly meeting, the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) agreed to hold an emergency hearing regarding its over-order premium and a possible increase.

The hearing has been set for 9 a.m., Oct. 10, in Room B of the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The call for an emergency meeting of the over-order premium was made in response to petitions from state Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr., the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and the Pennsylvania State Grange, according to Tracy Jackson, spokesperson for the PMMB.

The PMMB is authorized to institute minimum retail and wholesale prices on milk produced, processed and sold in Pennsylvania and for years has maintained a minimum and an over-order premium that is to be paid to producers.

Secretary Hayes led the call for the emergency hearing, providing a cue for the other groups to add their support.

In a letter to Frank DeGarcia of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board, Grange Legisative Director Brenda Shambaugh stated, "The Grange believes a hearing is necessary due to the severe weather conditions in Pennsylvania throughout this growing season.

"The drought has significantly hindered the crop harvest, consequently increasing costs and driving down profits for dairy producers. We are also anticipating a sharp increase in feed costs because of the drought.

"Coupling these facts with the decline in milk prices over the past 12 months, we foresee a significant financial hardship for dairy producers," she stated.

In her letter, Shambaugh stated that the Grange was seeking an increase in the over-order premium. A letter from state Agriculture Secretary Samuel Hayes Jr. requested the emergency hearing to consider whether the over-order premium should be "modified," rather than specifically seeking an increase, though an increase can be inferred.

A specific amount of increase in the premium has not been mentioned.

The PFB letter was essentially a statement that it wish to be considered as joining Secretary Hayes in calling for the emergency hearing.

In a news release made at the beginning of the week, state Secretary Hayes stated, "Pennsylvania's dairy farmers are facing severe economic distress due to declining milk prices and increasing production costs," Hayes said. "This summer's drought has further exacerbated the situation."

According to PDA, milk prices for dairy farmers have decreased by about 30 percent in less than a year.

"We must do what we can to balance the needs of our dairy farmers with those of consumers. I do not want Pennsylvania's dairy industry to become an off-shore enterprise."

According to the news release, "Hayes asked the PMMB to consider a price that will help alleviate economic problems in the farm community while not causing a need to increase consumer prices or threatening the marketing of Pennsylvania milk."

The PMMB

The PMMB serves the dairy industry as a protectionist agency by ensuring that there is enough locally produced and processed, fresh, affordable drinking milk available to all residents, not just for those in high competition markets.

The PMMB also protects farmers by auditing processing plants and ensuring that farmers get paid properly, fairly, and that the processors are adequately financed to pay for the milk delivered to them.

While milk promotional efforts treat milk as a generic commodity, it is a perishable, variable-quality commodity, and the loss of the dairy industry to rural Pennsylvania (the state with the largest rural population in the United States) would put consumers, especially rural consumers, at the mercy and uncertainty of imported products.

Earlier this year, as a result of overwhelming support and at the request of the state's maintstream agricultural organizations, the PMMB maintained for a year a 30-cent premium to help dairy farmers who experienced a several dollar drop per hundredweight of milk in pay because of an unexpected drop in the price of cheese at the now defunct Green Bay Cheese Exchange.

That cheese price decline and the subsequent decline in the price of milk continued through spring, and has not recovered well. Projections are that it can be expected to recover somewhat this fall, though it is expected to decrease again in later winter.

Because the cheese exchange only dealt with the trading of a minor percentage of the nation's cheese, and that price was used as a major component in the formula the USDA uses to calculate the price of milk farmers receive, the cheese price is now calculated by surveying other and more representative markets.

That 30-cent premium that was to end May 30, was on top of an existing 50-cent premium, that has been steady for years.

Any additional over-order premium that the PMMB may consider during the Oct. 10 hearing would be on top of the existing premiums.

Arena Of Change

But the dairy industry is challenged with more to adjust to than bad weather and low milk prices received at the farm.

Much dicussion about federal, state and local policies has been occuring in the wake of the fall of the former Soviet Union, the "Republican takeover" in Washington and Pennsylvania.

In fact, there was failed effort by at least one state politician last year to build support for eliminating some authority of the PMMB. There have been some fringe long-time opponents to the PMMB, but under the current political attitude, all aspects of government are being reviewed and questioned.

It seems as though all aspects of the dairy industry and farming in general have changed tremendously. It also appears as though, in an attempt to adjust and jockey for profitable and manageable positions, change continues on most fronts and can be expected to continue for some time.

Meanwhile, Pennsylvania's U.S. Sen. Arlen Specter, currently seeking re-election, this week continued to publicize his request of U.S. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman to set new dairy policy.

He is now calling for a national floor price (minimum price) paid to farmers of $14.50 per hundredweight of milk, to cover their cost of production.

Specter's call for the floor price echoes that of the National Farmers Union, which happened to be in Washington DC Sept. 6-10 to promote its calling for a floor price, as well as a basic formula price based on production costs, wholesale cheese prices and retail milk prices.

"When the National Cheese Exchange closed, USDA agreed to base the price on wholesale cheese prices. Their responsiveness is very encouraging, but we need a price that will take into account producers' costs and retail prices," said Robert Junk president of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, who was in Washington the whole week.

While the PFU and the NFU are seeking a temporary floor price to prevent even more farmers from going out of business, others have their own agenda.

Some of the differing agendas have been coming from self-described "family farmer" organizations that formed in recent years and gained some momentum and

*Spokesperson qualifications:

1. Speaking ability.
2. Innovation as a forage producer.
3. Participation and/or leadership in local, state, and/or national forage council activities.
4. Soundness of the farming operation.
5. Briefly (two paragraphs) describe the Spokesperson's farming operation.

All persons who qualify and who are chosen to participate in the PFGC Forage Spokesperson Contest in Tunkhannock will receive a cash honorarium from the PFGC. The winners at the November 18 contest will receive the following cash awards:

FIRST PLACE — $300
THIRD PLACE — $100

The First Place winner will then represent PA and the PFGC at the 1998 American Forage and Grassland Council Conference in Indianapolis, IN on March 8-11, 1998 in the N. America Forage Spokesperson Contest. AFGC conference and travel expenses will be covered by the PFGC. All participants in the AFGC contest will receive an honorarium and the first three place winners will receive cash awards and plaques. The Second Place winner in the PFGC contest will serve as the alternate from PA.

The PFGC and AFGC contests will be run and judged using the same rules and scoring procedures. Talks must be no longer than ten minutes in length. Judges will then ask the spokesperson questions about their farm operation for an additional two minutes. Contestants are encouraged to use color slides of their farm operation as part of their presentation and are encouraged to work closely with their County Extension Agent, crop advisor, industry representative or a PFGC Board Member in the preparation of their presentation.

Pennsylvania forage producers and Pennsylvania forages are second to none in quality. Let's show the other forage producers across N. America what high quality forages have done for the dairy and livestock industry in Pennsylvania!

Winebark Wins S.E. 4-H Market Hog Derby

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — Janine Winebark of Myerstown recently showed the overall grand champion of the 1997 Southeast Pennsylvania 4-H Market Hog Derby, a homebred crossbred gilt.

Winebark's grand champion was out of a field of entries from 22 youth who participated.

The annual market hog derby is a complete market hog educational program. The participating youth bring feeder pigs to a centralized place for a weigh-in at the beginning of the summer and then take them home to feed out, maintaining feeding and health records.

In late August, the youth select one of their finished hogs for competition, and they are weighed again and then shown live in the ring for type, similar to a regular market hog show.

The animals are then slaughtered and the carcasses measured for length, weight, backfat, loin eye diameter, and as well as receiving calculations for the rate of gain, as well as the poundage and percentage of lean meat production.

The carcasses are scored for conformation and given a final index, according to the national industry standards for market hogs.

The purpose of the competition, begun in 1991, is to teach youth about the real-world goals of market hog production, and the market values that are actually used in businesses, so that they have a better understanding of the industry and hog production, whether or not they choose to pursue a career in the industry.

Judges for the show and carcass evaluation were Jeff Craig with Stoltzfus Meats in Intercourse, a family owned business that does the slaughter and butchering of the entries and has supported the competition for years; Dave Holloway, a well-known Duroc and Hampshire breeder; and Ken Kephart, a Penn State University Extension hog specialist who authors a regular column in Lancaster Farming, "Pork Prose."

Dr. Ed Mills, a Penn State University meat specialist, also has been a regular supporter of the program and teaches the participants about the different cuts, yield and quality. This year participants also got to taste-test some of the different cuts to better demonstrate some of the qualities sought in meat production.

Also included in the overall program is a scholarship competition, based on the youth's experiences in 4-H, as well as their knowledge of the pork industry.

This year, there were two recipients, each receiving $250 scholarships, Wendy Jo Atkins, of Lebanon, and Cynthia Delong.

Sponsors provide money for the scholarships and premiums for the shows.

Sponsors this year included Pa. Pork Producers Council, Wenger's Feed Mill Inc., and Hatfield Quality Meats as champion sponsors; and Leidy's Inc., Purina Mills Inc., Farmers First Bank, Robert Graybill DVM, and Tri-County Confinement Systems Inc. as class sponsors.

Derby benefactors included Agricultural Veterinary Associates; Balsbaugh Insurance Agency; Bank of Lancaster County; the Bernard C. Morrissey Insurance Agency Inc.; Gehman Feed Mill Inc.; Hess Mills; Keystone Farm Credit ACA; Lebanon Valley National Bank; M.H. Eby Inc.; Schick Enterprises; Stoltzfus Feed and Supply Inc.; and York County Pork Producers.

Winebark's overall grand champion was the lightweight on-foot champion. It weighed in at 52 pounds and weighed out at 230.

It also had a rate-of-gain per day of 1.695 pounds; a pounds-lean rate-of-gain of .8375 pounds; a carcass weight of 181 pounds; a carcass length of 32.1 inches; a loin eye area of 7.5 square inches; backfat at .5 inches; and the carcass was 58.581 percent lean. With a conformation score of 3, it had a final index of .837.

The reserve overall champion was a crossbred boar exhibited by Nathan Tice, of Lebanon. His animal was the mediumweight champion. Tice also has shown champions before.

Tice's animal weighed in a 58 pounds and weighed out at 250. It had 1.846 pounds gain per day, of which .8321 was lean gain. The carcass was 185 pounds with a 33-inch length. It had a 6.85-square-inch loin eye, and .4 inches of backfat. The carcass was 57.910 percent lean, and had a conformation score of 3, with a final index of .832.

Timothy Crouse, of Lebanon, showed the third place overall animal, a 270-pound crossbred gilt which was the grand champion on-foot, as well as the heavyweight champion on-foot.

Crouse's animal weighed in at 67 pounds, had a 1.951-pounds per day rate-of-gain; had a carcass weight of 197 pounds; 33-inch carcass length; a 7.05 square-inch loin eye area; .7 inches of backfat; was 54.584 percent lean, with .7997 pounds lean gain per day; a conformation score of 3, and a final index of .799.

The reserve grand champion on-foot was the reserve heavyweight champion, a 270-pound Hampshire gilt shown by Brandon Winebark of Myerstown. Overall, his entry finished 21st, partially because of meat quality, demonstrating the fact that live-animal judging is merely an indicator of carcass quality, and not necessarily that accurate.

The lightweight champion was a crossbred gilt shown by Darren Charles, finishing 7th overall. The reserve mediumweight champion was a crossbred boar shown by Nathanial Artz, of Lebanon. It finished 13th overall.

The Southeastern Regional competition is open to youth in Lebanon, Lancaster, Cumberland, Chester, Berks, Lehigh, and York counties Bucks, Dauphin, Montgomery. For more information on participating, contact a local extension livestock agent or a 4-H leader.

Participants and 4-H leaders taste sample of pork cuts, and listen to Dr. Ed Mills, Penn State meat specialist, who gives a presentation on pork quality.

Cooperative Extension Offers Futures Market Satellite Conference

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Dairy producers looking to excercise more control over their cash flow may consider using existing trade exchange contracts to protect their investments.

While it sounds as though the advice is for farmers to become Wall Street savy, it isn't.

But it does mean that some homework is recommended before adopting futures contracts as part of the farm's cash management strategy.

The advice coming from Cooperative Extension experts and from several Mid Western farmers this week is for farmers to consider ways to avoid the effects of volatility in milk price, through taking advantage of an apparent consistent relationship between the price paid for milk in a given month and the predicted U.S. Department of Agriculture basic formula price (BFP) of milk.

The relationship, in this case the difference, between the price of milk and the BFP has historically tracked along fairly regularly. Regularly enough in fact that Phil Durst, Penn State dairy extension agent for several north central counties, published an article in his August newsletter that explains the relationship fairly well.

Using a graph of the price per hundredweight of milk versus the months from August 1997 to April 1998, he charted the levels of the BFP futures as they were at the close of trade on August 18.

The BFP was the lowest line on the graph, because the BFP is lower than the price received for milk.

"... the Federal Order Blend Price predictions ... are arrived at by adding the historical (seven-year average) difference, or basis, between the BFP and the Federal Order price for each month to the BFP Future Contract prices."

By analyzing the graph, he explained that, "... market users expect the August BFP to be $1 or more (it was $1.14 at the time) higher than the July BFP. They also predict that the price will rise for two more months with a peak over $12.50 for October, and then decline to around the $12 mark."

The gist of his newsletter article was to provide some outlook for farmers who could perhaps use it to prepare themselves.

"I encourage you to look over your cash flow for the coming months. Using this information to make some estimates about income and look at expected expenses. If you forsee cash flow difficulties ahead, talk to your lender now. Take this milk price graph with you to show them what to expect.

"Knowing what to expect doesn't take the sting out of low prices, but it reduces the suprises and allows you to plan ahead."

While Durst's newsletter article wasn't part of Monday's teleconference, it fairly well explains and demonstrates the relationships that allow using BFP Futures contracts to stabilize income.

But using futures contracts is only for those who truly know their actual costs of production, and are efficient enough to at least be marginally profitable at the level of a projected basic formula price for a given month.

Otherwise, it doesn't make a lot of sense to even think about considering being involved with using the tools offered thus far through the seminal dairy trading markets in New York and Chicago.

A live satellite downlink program held Monday afternoon about the market tools and how they can be used by dairy producers to manage their risk in production investment was broadcast from the University of Wisconsin, and moderated by Pam Janke, farm director for WTSO radio in Madison, Wis.

The program was designed to provide a fundemental understanding of the dairy contracts available on future production as traded through national trading exchanges. It was sponsored in part by the University of Wisconsin Extension and the New York Coffee, Sugar and Cocoa Exchange, which is currently doing the largest volume of business.

The program was available across the country with 135 sites participating, according to Janke.

Locally, the Lancaster County Extension Service provided access and take-home information for a nominal fee. Adams County Extension also provided a downlink site, and there were others in the state and other states through different university extension downlink sites.

(For Lancaster Countians, Glenn Shirk, county dairy agent, recorded the program and copies are to be available in a couple of weeks at cost. Contact Shirk at (717) 394-6851 for information about availability. Others should alliances in efforts to block the federal approval of recombinant bovine somatotropin as a stimulant to increase milk production.

In fact, depending on which faction is surveyed, the dairy production community appears to hold a range of opinions as to what should be the proper course of action for federal government in addressing the dramatic decline in dairy prices and the number of dairy farmers leaving the business.

The U.S. agriculture secretary has the authority to implement a number of decisions and actions that can affect the milk price, though public hearings are required protocol, and the current bent of governmental policy is to limit government's affects upon the industry, especially as it adjusts to a complete disappearance of federal incentives for production.

During this re-election campaign year, Sen. Specter has distributed news statements calling upon Glickman to take certain actions, though Specter should have known that the secretary had already announced those actions were to be taken.

In those cases, Specter's news releases were made just prior to the anticipated action by Glickman, making it appear to the uninformed as though Glickman's actions were being done as a result of the influence of Specter's political clout.

However, national dairy policy has already been set to eliminate all federal dairy support by 2000, and the mainstream dairy industry, as well as the state's largest membership political farm organizations are not behind the current call for a $14.50 floor price.

Federal dairy policy also is calling for the restructuring and reduction in the number of federal dairy orders, which are subdivisions of the nation's dairy production into different pricing regions, ideally reflecting differences in production and delivery costs.

That is still to come and can be expected to have more impact on dairy policy and pricing.

Other Changes

Further, recent and pending mergers of dairy cooperatives into national powers sets the stage for cooperatives — generally exempt from anti-monopoly laws — to eventually influence the price of milk even more than they have.

Maryland dairy producers last year formed a political organization for the first time, in response to the disappearance of dairy farms and with help from those concerned about the loss of farmland.

During meetings and hearings, it was apparent that predatory pricing has been in effect from out-of-state milk marketers in an effort to eliminate competition in Maryland and gain control the market.

When the farms are gone, especially those sold for residential or commerical development, there is little chance that dairy production will resume, giving long-term strength to the surviving out-of-state suppliers.

It was implied that dairy marketing cooperatives were involved.

In a news release this week, Milk Marketing Inc., in Strongsville, Ohio, announced that the corporate boards of four of the nation's largest dairy marketing cooperatives voted to present terms of a consolidation that would make them the largest.

A merger of the four would create the Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) marketing cooperative with an estimated control of 21 percent of the nation's milk supply.

According to the news release, "DFA's objective is to enhance economies of scale and to expand markets for member milk."

Cooperatives involved in the consolidation proposal are Mid-America Dairymen Inc. of Springfield, Mo; Milk Marketing Inc., Western Dairymen Cooperative Inc. of Thorton, Colo. and Salt Lake City, Utah; and the Southern Region of Associated Milk Producers Inc. or Arlington, Texas.

According to Herman Brubaker, chairman of MMI and proposed chairman of the consolidated cooperative, "We've laid the foundation for a cooperative that can serve dairy farmers in this tough competitive environment."

Earlier this year, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative merged with Land O'Lakes to form a larger, more national-scope cooperative.

'Miles' Goes The Distance At Denver Sheep Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — Instead of nicknaming the lamb "Traveler," as the man who helped transport the wether suggested, Rachel Day knew better.

At the suggestion of a good friend, she decided to call the market lamb "Miles" — as in the saying, you know, "Miles to go before I sleep . . . ."

Through a series of mishaps and miscalculations, the lamb that she purchased from Ohio traveled to Pennsylvania by way of New Jersey — at least that was the plan.

As it turned out, it took several attempts for a friend of the family, Dr. Robert Herr, to finally pick up "Miles" and bring him home.

Luckily for Rachel, it all worked out in the end — because on Thursday evening she won grand champion market lamb at the Denver Fair.

Rachel, 15, daughter of Cliff and Anna Day, is in the 10th grade at Garden Spot High School. Instead of taking the suggested name "Traveler" for her 135-pound heavyweight Suffolk crossbred from Herr, she took the advice of friend Gina Baumiller to call it "Miles."

But even Rachel knows that names can only do so much to win the attention of the judge. It was the work Rachel put into feeding and exercising the market wether — including stepping the ram up a ramp 10-15 feet in length almost every day — that gave her the market championship.

Rachel said she will be showing sheep at the Ephrata and New Holland fairs.

In the end, show judge David Lytle, a Hampshire breeder from New London, said that with the amount of meat on the lamb, it was obviously the winner. He said it simply stood out as superior to the other lambs.

Rachel's wether won out over the reserve champion, the middle weight champion shown by Ryan Donough.

In this case, Ryan, 13, son of Ed and LaRue Donough, Manheim, chose the nickname "Taz." As to who suggested the name, Ryan simply said that "it needed a name," and the TV cartoon "Tazmanian Devil" provided it.

By the way — the lamb is pretty mild-mannered, compared to its pen-and-ink TV counterpart.

Ryan is in the 8th grade at Manheim Central Middle School. He indicated the Suffolk crossbred wether, at 11 pounds, is homebred — from the family's own ewes and rams. He won champion at Denver a couple of years ago, according to his mother, LaRue.

Ryan said he put Taz through a devilishly rigorous hurdle program. The lamb was run in a 30-foot, circular track with six hurdles, like those used by track and field stars. The wether got 20 laps through the hurdles every day.

Ryan will be showing more sheep at Ephrata Fair, New Holland Farmers Fair, Manheim Farm Show, and the state Farm Show.

Travis Redmond, 13, son of Jean and Henry Redmond, Mohnton, won grand champion ram with his Shropshire ram lamb, "Buddy." Travis, Twin Valley Middle School 7th grader, won reserve champion last year at Denver. Travis will be showing at several fairs, including Reading, Oley, New Holland, and the state farm show.

Lytle said that the ram is "extremely long in the loin" and shows a great bit of character for a Shropshire.

Reserve went to Jay Zimmerman, 17, son of Jay and Joann Zimmerman, Reinholds. He won with a Southdown ram, "Pioneer." He's a junior at Cocalico High School.

Lytle was impressed with the Suffolk spring ewe, which he thought was an "extremely thick-topped ewe. It stands on a good set of feet and legs," he said. Lytle noted that the sheep is "one of the more correct sheep we had to look at today."

The supreme ewe was shown by Andrew Gerhart, 10, son of Glenn and Cathy Gerhart, Reinholds. Andrew showed a spring ewe obtained from Lyn Lee Farms, State College. Andrew is in the 5th grade at Adamstown Elementary and will be showing at various fairs, including Ephrata, New Holland, Keystone International Livestock Expo (KILE), Manheim, and state Farm Show.

The reserve ewe was shown by Jimmy Zimmerman, 13, son of Jay and Joann Zimmerman, Reinholds. Jimmy showed a Hampshire spring ewe. He's in the 8th grade at Cocalico. He will be showing at Ephrata, New Holland, KILE, Manheim, and state Farm Show.

At Denver there were a total of 24 exhibitors, 44 market sheep, 61 breeding sheep — in all, 10 different breeds of sheep. Following is a list of show placings.

Cooperative Extension Offers Futures Market Satellite Conference

contact their local extension office and inquire about the program.)

The gist of the program was that the use of the contracting tools by producers is being proposed as a way to ensure (not insure) that producers can achieve a constant, predetermined profit margin.

What is sacrificed is the ability to gain a huge windfall from an unexpected upturn in the price paid for milk delivered to a plant.

What is gained is protection from a huge loss from an unexpected downturn in the actual price paid for milk.

But, the bottom line is that the producer must already have a relatively low cost of production, relatively high level of production, and an astute awareness of his anticipated operational costs.

The way it works is that in New York and Chicago there are trade exchanges that have recently developed futures markets for dairy commodities — milk futures and basic formula price (BFP) futures, as well as options.

Trading is done on contracts based in increments of 100,000 pounds of milk.

The program was presented with a panel of experts, videotaped interviews with producers of different backgrounds who already use the markets, and question and answer periods, whereby participants at the 135 different downlink locations could telephone questions or send them via fascimile machine.

The program was scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m., Central Daylight Time. There is a little more than an hour difference in time between Lancaster and Madison.

Panelists included Bob Cropp, a University of Wisconsin professor and an Extension specialist in dairy marketing and policy; Janet Troye, vice president of the Coffee, Sugar & Cocoa Exchange Inc., New York, which offers the dairy trading and currently has the largest volume of business; Paul Christ, vice president of dairy planning and analysis at Land 'O Lakes Inc.; and Phil Plourd, a senior marketing specialist at Bliming and Associates, in Cottage Grove, Wis.

The farmers interviewed included John Blaska, Pete Knigge, and Mike Downes. Also shown in a video interview was Larry Lemmenes, president of Alto Dairy, a cooperative that, similar to Land 'O Lakes, offers fixed price forward contracting for its members.

There are currently three different "tools" available for use and one that is being suggested as a least-risk tool for producers.

The three are "forward contracting," "futures," and "options."

With forward contracting, the seller and buyer agree to a price before time, and delivery of product is included.

With futures, the seller and buyer are basically speculating on the prices and there is no delivery of product. However, they do make a cash settlement. It's more like a bet, with one or the other making or losing some money, depending on how closely they came to betting on the right price. This type of speculation is called "price discovery." A seller can offer to sell at any price he or she sets, but if there are no buyers... well, then, there are no buyers.

With options, a producer, for example, can buy an option to sell (put) or buy (take) at a certain price, then if the price comes in lower, he can sell at the higher price. This is considered to be more of an insurance plan, and carries a premium that has to paid (deducted). Again, this is a paper transaction dealing only with speculation and the exchange of cash.

It is not neccesssary to be a dairy producer to be involved, though it appears that the potential to make money by a non-producer is too slim to attract investment speculators.

Under the "futures" catagory there are "milk futures" and, more recently "BFP futures." The BFP futures appears to be the easiest for producers to use.

The way it works is that traders — buyers and sellers — are basically playing a guessing game on paper with what the U.S. Department of Agriculture will determine to be the basic formula price of milk in the future.

Cheese prices, historic trends, consumption and production trends, as well as other potential influences on the BFP can be used to help guess where the USDA will set the BFP.

What happens is that two parties — one a seller and one a buyer — arrive at a contract. The seller offers to "sell" a BFP futures contract at a certain level. The buyer agrees to it and puts up some money.

After the USDA announces the actual BFP, the two parties settle up.

So, if a farmer sells 100,000 pounds of milks on the BFP futures market at $12 per hundredweight (though he doesn't really sell the milk), he is basically guessing that the BFP will come in somewhere close to that.

If the BFP is lower, then the producer who sold that contract will have gained the difference between the lower price he got for his milk and the $12 per cwt. that he "sold" on the 100,000 pounds.

If he sells a BFP contract for $12 and it comes in at $13, then he has lost out on the potential for an extra $1 per cwt. But he still gets the $13 from the actual sale of milk.

Why play around with this side bet?

Because the BFP futures and the cash price for the milk generally go in opposite directions — when there is a higher BFP the producer will get more money in his blended price (which is based on the BFP) from the actual sale of the milk, which is to offset the loss from losing out on the futures contract; while if the BFP comes in lower, the farmer will make a profit on the side bet, which offsets the lower price he will get for actually selling his milk.

Why do all of this? Because the producer does not have control of, or knowledge of, what price he will receive for his milk until after it has been sold and the USDA generates the BFP and the milk plant calculates the milk check.

This side-betting futures scheme can allow a producer to eliminate the extremities in cash flow to the farm due to the wide variations in milk prices.

Forward Contracting

The foward contracting is basically a delivery agreement at a preset price. The cooperatives offering to members use the BFP futures to calculate and estimate the price for milk several months ahead. Then, to lock in some of their operating expenses at a known level, they have started offering to purchase some milk ahead of time through forward contracts.

If the price of milk increases, the cooperative gets milk at less cost, and the producer misses out on the potential to get that extra profit. If the price of milk decreases, then the cooperative has paid more than it may have, and the farmer gets more than he would have.

Forward contracts also have applications for the milk processor. The fluid milk futures are tools designed more for the milk processor.

DMI Plans Integrated Cheese Marketing Campaign

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Dairy Management Inc. (DMI) has assigned creative development for its cheese advertising business to Leo Burnett Co., Chicago, as part of its plan to develop the industry's first nationally integrated marketing campaign to build domestic sales of U.S. produced cheese products.

With the assignment, pending USDA contract review, Burnett will add creative for cheese advertising to its current media planning and buying assignments on both milk and cheese for DMI. The assignment is part of a projected $53 million integrated marketing effort on cheese being planned by DMI for 1998.

The integrated marketing plan is being based on a landmark segmentation study conducted recently by Burnett for DMI.

The study, which identified priority growth opportunities for dairy product sales, surveyed nearly 5,000 consumers. As a result of the study, two major cheese consumer segments surfaced which staff and agency planning teams will address.

In addition to advertising, the plan will include retail promotion, public relations, foodservice marketing and the strategic application of DMI-funded product, ingredient and nutrition research to enhance current and future marketing efforts.

DMI is the domestic and international planning and management organization responsible for increasing demand for dairy products on behalf of America's dairy farmers. The organization manages the American Dairy Association, National Dairy Council and U.S. Dairy Export Council.

Swine Producers' Seminar Held

Nearly 30 Pennsylvania pork producers and industry representatives recently attended a free seminar entitled "Beyond 2000: Managing the Modern Sow." Held at the Country Table Restaurant in Mt. Joy, the meeting was sponsored by White Oak Mills Inc. Dr. Betsy Newton, of Newsham Hybrids, Colorado Springs, Colorade, serves as guest speaker. John Chapman, White Oak's vice president, pork production, served as master of ceremonies. Dr. Newtown addressed the management and feeding of today's leaner sows as well as miximing sow production. Attendees had an opportunity to address specific questions to Dr. Newtown, Chapman and other members of White Oak's professional pork production team. York Fair Names Junior Market Lamb Winners

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Senior 4-H exhibitor and veteran sheep showman Matt Trostle was absent from the York Fair and still captured two of the most coveted titles at the annual competition, champion market lamb in both the junior and open class shows.

Trostle, of Red Lion, claimed the junior market lamb banner with a crossed Suffolk homebred. Family and friends helped with his winning showstring, while he was beginning his freshman year at Blackhawk College in Illinois. Along with pursuing his degree studies, Trostle will hone his judging skills with the college's noted livestock judging programs.

In the pairs runoff, Trostle exhibited the champion winners, with Jennifer Flinchbaugh claiming the reserve pairs spot.

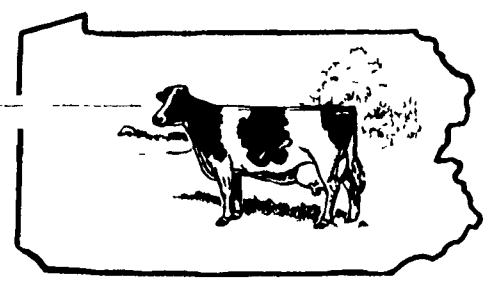
Reserve champion junior market lamb title at the York Fair was won by the homebred Suffolk ewe exhibited by 4-H'er Julie Kern.

Pa. Holstein Association Announces Show, Seeks Quality Cows

Pennsylvania Holstein Association



STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association this week made several announcements of interest to members and other Holstein enthusiasts.

It announced it is seeking pedigrees of top young cows that could be potential embryo or bull mothers for the association's export business.

It also reminded members and enthusiasts of its Fall Championship Show, set for 9 a.m., Sept. 23, at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg to be held in conjunction with the week-long Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show.

Further, PHA has announced this is to be sharing a booth with the New York Holstein Association at the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wis., in October and that it can serve as an excellent opportunity for promotion of Pennsylvania Holstein herds, cow families or other related Holstein business ventures and animals.

Fall Championship

According to the PHA, the Fall Championship Show is to kick off at 9 a.m., with Robert Fitzsimmons from East Montpilier, Vt., to serve as type judge.

Along with recognizing class winners in both the open and youth divisions of the championship show, the 1997 All-Pennsylvania winners (based on show placing from the Spring Show, regional shows and the Fall Show), are to be announced.

Two additional highlights are to be the selection of the 1997 Keystone Futurity winner and the winner of the George M. Knight Jr. Total Performance Award.

The 36 animals eligible for the Futurity class entered as heifers with payments made as the animals matured. The winner is to receive more than $900 in prize money.

The George Knight Total Performance Award is based on show and production performance.

World Dairy Expo

The sharing of a booth at the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wis., is seen as an excellent opportunity for Pennsylvania Holstein breeders and support businesses to promote themselves because of the world audience the World Expo attracts every year.

According to the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, for $25 it will distribute farm brochures from the booth. A check made out to the Pennsylvania Holstein Association and the brochures to be distributed need to be at the PHA office in State College by Sept. 20.

Checks and brochures should be sent to: Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA 16801.

Exporting Cattle

The PHA is one of the leading world exporters of dairy cattle in the Eastern United States. For years it has been able to develop a strong reputation for fulfilling requests for cattle from clients around the world.

To continue the strength of the PHA export business that serves to provide members with additional marketing sources, and thus more profit potential, the association continues to seek out stock representative of the high quality being bred and raised in Pennsylvania.

The association has announced it is currently seeking top young cows that could be potential mothers for embryos or bulls to serve as sires.

The cows should meet several requirements.

The classification score should be a potential Very Good or higher. The mammary system should be scored a Very Good or Excellent.

Production should be at least 22,000 pounds of milk, with 3.8 percent fat and 3.2 percent protein.

The index should be a CTPI of +1,500 of higher.

The dam and grandam should be classified as a high Very Good or Excellent and meet the same production minimums.

The sire should be a top TPI bull.

The PHA is requesting that those who have milking daughters of the top TPI bulls that meet or exceed the criteria should please forward the cow's pedigree to the office. If the cow is not scored or has a record in progress and it is felt that she will meet the criteria, the PHA is also interested.

Mail or send via fascimile (fax) machine the pedigree to the PHA. The fax number is (814) 234-1698.

For more information, call the PHA at (814) 234-0364.

Dairy Producers Respond To Survey

SHAWANO, Wis. — Nearly 600 dairy producers from 30 states responded to a recent survey conducted for Cooperative Resources International by the University of Wisconsin Center for Cooperatives, directed by Dr. Robert Cropp. The heaviest concentration of responses came from producers in Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, New York, Minnesota and California. Two-thirds of the respondents listed ages between 35 and 54 years.

Asked how they felt about the future of the dairy industry, 83% recorded being pessimistic about improved milk prices. With the exception of California producers, about 80% were also pessimistic about future profitability. Among California respondents, 42% believe the profitability picture to be a bright one. A greater number, particularly Californians, believe there is considerable opportunity for the exporting of dairy products.

Only 7% of the producers responding indicated they would be getting out of dairying within the next three years. The number moved to 13% in a five-year horizon. One third noted they planned to expand their herd size by 25% or more in the next five years.

For herd replacement decisions, to avoid inbreeding, improving individual type traits and merchandising were the most prevalent comments made by 89% of the respondents who felt having their animals identified by sire was important. In general, sire selection indexes such as TPI, Net Merit, Productive Life and Milk-Fat-Protein Dollars did not rank as high as Predicted Transmitting Ability (PTA) for milk and protein or udder and feet & leg composites.

Nearly 80% of the respondents said it was somewhat or very beneficial to have their DHI records accessed by USDA, AI organizations, breed associations and universities for research and other public uses. The main reasons stated for access to records were to improve the accuracy of sire proofs and for faster genetic advancement. A high percentage of the 68% of producers whose herds are on some form of DHIA test ranked individual cow performance, somatic cell count and component testing as being the main reasons they are on a production testing program. Income over feed costs and other financial information ranked low. Nearly half of the respondents use a personal computer as a means of managing farm information.

Responding to the question regarding having one representative for both production testing and AI sales while maintaining the AI and DHI cooperatives separate, two-thirds said they would favor such an arrangement. The commentary provided with the answer to this question provided some conflicting views. While the overwhelming majority said they favored one representative if service costs could by better contained through consolidation of services, others expressed concern about a conflict of interest.

Trains Chug Through Spectacular Outdoor Gardens

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — A trip to Eugene Boll's Southwestern-style home overlooking a good share of York County from atop a hill along Ridgewood Road in Springettsbury Township not only provides the visitor with a breathtaking view, but also the scene near his house is inspiring.

Boll, a member of the Susquehanna Valley Railroad Garden Society, which boasts about 50 members from eastern Pennsylvania, has plotted and planned and built extensive railroad gardens in his own yard.

He said the society numbers 15 garden railroad layouts among its members with several in its ranks just in the construction phase. Cost of membership is just $4 a year and the group meets monthly at a member's home on a social basis. Boll said the group is not a formal organization.

"I think what's pushing the hobby is it's a family thing. The women plant the flowers and do all the gardening and the fellows run the trains. Most of the train buffs for years had their trains in the attic or the basement and the old man went down and that was the last you saw of him. In this type of thing the whole family gets involved," he said.

Boll explained that a garden can be installed inexpensively or "you can spend a whole lot money."

It's an all-weather thing too, Boll said. "You can take the engines — the trains are G gauge — and dip them in a bucket of water and put them back on the track."

However, he noted that electronics has made inroads into the hobby and can be a problem because of the moisture. "We have cattle cars that have chickens, turkeys, cattle, and pigs. It's a sound board and that board can be a moisture problem. You must protect it," he said. Everything else is able to stand up in wet weather.

Boll started with his hobby, he said, "Because we have a nursery — Springettsbury Mountain Nursery — and we have a lot of dwarf plant material." Garden railroaders use the dwarf plants in their railroads so it was the perfect avenue for his business.

"The scale is 1/2-inch to the foot, which means a 6-foot person is 3-inches high, so your tree would be small as would the buildings,." he said.

His railroad garden started with one engine given to him five years ago as a birthday present from his daughter. "She said, 'Here, you were talking about trains, here's an engine,'" he said as he chuckled and then added, "That's how a lot of people got started."

He laughs at how people in the hobby start out with a small layout and continually expand. He counts himself among them because he has had major expansion in the past four years. He has 700 feet of tracks in the one garden that measures "80-to-90-feet long and 40-feet wide."

As he takes the visitor on a tour of his layout located on the side of the hill just below his home, he gets a twinkle in his voice as he points out, "There's Indiana Jones being chased by a bear and Pocohantas is down here in the Lost River Canyon."

Next, Boll who worked at one time in construction "and ran a bunch of factories" moves onto the main feature — two trains sitting in a train barn over the tracks and the various dwarf plants in the layout that also includes a waterfall and large trestle bridge. He built it all, even the Painted Ladies — Victorian houses — that sit inside the track. All are lighted and at night he said when you sit on the deck atop his house "it looks like a little town."

He notes that you can buy kits for the houses, but they are made in Europe and are either European or Western style, he didn't want either one so he built his in the Victorian style. One of the houses is a replica of a home in the valley below his property.

The garden also includes a replica of the York Railroad Station on North Street in York City. There's also a firehouse.

Boll tells how track was added yearly and finally when the area was about covered with tracks, plants, and buildings, his wife, Mary, said, "Well there's nothing over here," and he points to another railroad garden up the hill. "So we put the cog railroad in," he said with a chuckle.

This garden has a boulder he dragged by tractor out of a wooded area near his home sunk three feet into the ground on its end. On the end rising up from the garden is perched a monastary from which monks walk. Here there is also a castle, which sometimes finds its way to various events in the York County area such as the Christmas light show at Rocky Ridge Park and the spring garden show at the York Fairgrounds.

Boll said requests for train layouts for area events have been so numerous recently they've had to refuse some.

One of Boll's trains is a replica of the Liberty Limited that used to leave Washington, D.C., every day at 5 p.m. and arrived in Chicago 18 hours later. The Liberty Limited had two engines — as does Boll's — in order to climb the Parkton grade coming into New Freedom as the train made its way through York County, he said.

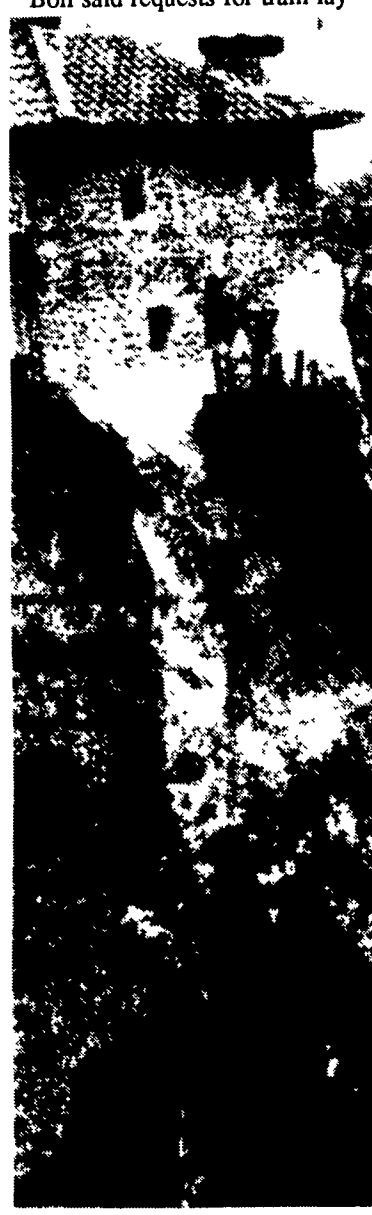
A small-scale train weaves through miniature garden plantings and built-to-scale houses in one of several outdoor displays by Eugene Boll.

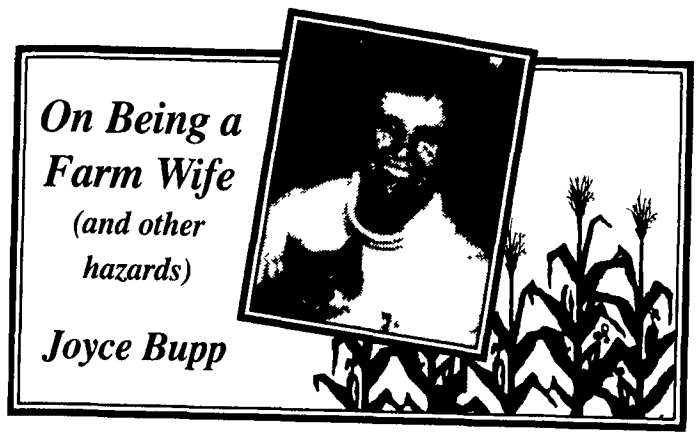


A monastary is built on top of a large boulder, which Boll dragged by tractor from the nearby wooden area. The monk figures have acorns for heads.

Railroad under tree is a cog railroad and has a castle that has been used in display at York County's Christmas light display held annually at Rocky Ridge Park.

The houses, called Victorian Painted Ladies, were built by Eugene Boll.

HOMESTEAD NOTES



Sometimes you can spot trouble a mile away.

This wasn't quite a mile, but the trouble ahead was obvious.

There on the steps of a local bank was a familiar face. As I got closer, a second familiar face came into view. Uncle Donnie. And Lindy, whose family are special friends. There would be some sort of grief from these two, and it came the moment I rounded the corner.

"Hey, look at the size of that handbag," they harrassed, knowing I was headed up the steps to the door and insinuating that it was stuffed with a bunch of deposit potential. Yeah. Right.

"Well, it's certainly not full of checks," I laughed in defense, "though I wish. No way. It's full of...of...uh, pens and cosmetics and stuff."

Fact is, the handbag is full of "stuff." But, for a split second there, I couldn't for the life of me recall what all the stuff was causing my worn purse to look like it was going to have puppies.

This was a wake-up call. Because, parked on a closet shelf back home was a brand new handbag, one I had purchased just a few weeks ago. The intent was to replace the worn, aging one, with its fraying sides and threadbare strap attachments, with one of more respectable appearance. At least for a little while, I might not look as though I was hauling around something that might have passed as a well-used saddlebag lingering from the Pony Express era. Stuffed with...good question.

But the replacement had remained parked on the shelf for at least three weeks. I'd forgotten about it, to be honest. Maybe because I hate to switch handbags.

A handbag is your life. A handbag is your identity. A handbag is — essentially — you. Let a woman browse through another woman's handbag for three minutes and she can probably piece together a life story. And we all have our own personal filing systems in our heads for using the various compartments provided by the most useful of well-designed handbags.

Men — who often make fun of our handbags — delight in having fishing, hunting, tool, etc, vests sporting about 23 pockets, each filled with some vital necessity. Like squirmy, squishy Jello-consistency colored artificial worms or bugs. Or real, live bullets neatly arranged, for goodness' sake. And they laugh at what we carry around?

Debating that gender gap nudged me to get the handbag retirement and transfer process under way. Or maybe it was curiosity? What all was in there? I lugged the new purse down from upstairs and embarked on this adventure.

Relocated to a new home in a black, faux-leather, four-sectioned shoulder bag were the usual: wallet, datebook, checkbook, sunglasses, comb and brush, notebook of phone numbers and addresses, contact lens solutions, emergency glasses in case I lose a contact lens, and cosmetic case bulging with miscellaneous makeup and one rubberband. Source of rubberband, undetermined.

Tucked into another section was my "sundries" department, a small plastic case stuffed with tiny scissors, mini-sewing kit, bandages, emory boards and miscellaneous pain-reliever sample packs, which I rarely ever use but frequently lend to fellow meeting attendees. Found at the bottom of that section was a retracting tape measure periodically used while shopping to measure potential household purchases. Also borrowed by a male stranger in a discount department store a few months ago — because he had forgotten his.

More interesting were the flotsam and jetsam: one name tag, three dairy-related lapel pins, a scrawled drawing on a pink piece of paper gifted me by a five-year-old church friend, seven ball point pens, eight fine-line marker pens, one pink highlighter, two paper clips, two safety pins, three pieces of wrapped chocolate, four pieces of assorted hard candy, one restaurant courtesy breath mint, and two slightly misshapen pieces of chewing gum. I struck paydirt on the the very bottom: one dime, two nickels, and six pennies.

Know what? I transferred most of it. Except for a handful of crumpled tissues and a few scrap grocery lists. And the chocolate, which promptly disappeared.

Alas, the new handbag now looks like it's going to have puppies. But, guys, I did find something I can deposit in the bank:

Twenty-six cents.

Tractor Companies Unite To Promote ROPS, Seat Belts On Older Machines

ITASCA, Ill. — In an unprecedented joint effort, North America's five leading tractor companies are working together to encourage tractor owners to have their older machines equipped with rollover protective structures (ROPS) and seat belts in an effort to help reduce deaths and injuries associated with rollovers and runovers.

As an incentive to owners, AGCO Corporation, Case Corporation, Deere & Company, Kubota Tractor Corporation, and New Holland North America, Incorporated are making it possible to purchase ROPS and seat belts at the companies' cost.

This joint effort is aimed at reducing the two leading causes of death and injury to tractor operators. Statistics compiled by the National Safety Council show 55 percent of all tractor-related deaths in 1995 were associated with rollovers and 26 percent involved people who were run over by tractors. Approximately one-half of the people run over were operators who were thrown from tractors.

A recent study of 76 tractor rollover fatalities by Iowa State University and the University of Iowa Center for Agricultural Safety and Health (I-CASH) showed all 76 victims were operating tractors without ROPS and seat belts.

"If a tractor rolls over and it doesn't have a ROPS, there's a 75 percent chance of dying," said I-CASH Director Dr. Kelley Donham. "If you put a ROPS and seat belt on the tractor, and wear the seat belt, you have a 95 percent or greater chance of walking away from the situation."

Donham stresses that wearing a seat belt is important, because it ensures the operator remains in the protection zone of the ROPS.

ROPS and seat belts were adopted as standard equipment by all major tractor manufacturers in 1985. However, according to a 1994 survey by the USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service, more than 2.9 million, or 62 percent, of the estimated 4.7 million tractors in use on farms were not equipped with ROPS and seat belts.

To encourage owners to have ROPS and seatbelts installed on their older tractors and to reduce the effect that price may have on the decision, AGCO, Case, John Deere, Kubota, and New Holland are offering kits at cost to their dealers and asking them to sell these kits without markup. For tractor owners concerned about low overhead clearance, such as barn doors, folding ROPS kits are also available for some tractors. Depending on the tractor model, most ROPS kits cost less than $600 (U.S.), plus freight and installation. Kits are available for most tractors manufacturered in the mid/late 1960s up to 1985 (when ROPS and seat belts became standard).

In addition to the price incentive, the companies plan to place co-sponsored announcements in various farm media, including company-produced communications, to promote ROPS and seat belts on older tractors. At the same time, each company will continue its individual educational and promotional programs to encourage owners to have their older tractors equipped with ROPS and seat belts.

Tractor owners should contact their local dealer for more information and to set up an appointment to have ROPS and seat belts installed on their older tractors.

The National Safety Council encourages all farmers and ranchers to take the first step and put an emphasis on safety during National Farm Safety and Health week and throughout the year. It will take a team effort to prevent tractor rollover deaths and other farm and ranch injuries.

Rice Is Just A Click Away

HOUSTON, Texas — Rice is just a click away. Welcome to the '50s-themed Have a Rice Day Cafe, a new, interactive web site where rice eaters around the world can congregate to learn the latest news on the rice industry, pick up some tips for cooking the perfect pot of rice, download recipes with the click of a button, check out festivals and events happening in the rice growing areas, and a whole lot more.

The site, sponsored by the USA Rice Federation, features black-and-white rice industry photos from the '50s along with a menu which includes more than 100 rice recipes (photos and nutrition content included), a bibliography of rice cookbooks, trivia, and an interactive forum where guests can play games, ask questions of the rice experts, submit favorite rice recipes, or search for recipes that contain a particular ingredient.

In addition to fun graphics, the site (located at http://www.usarice.com) is designed to entice guests to visit again and again. "We're updating the site weekly to feature a seasonal recipe-of-the-week and include the latest news about the rice industry. It will continue to expand and evolve, keeping visitors of the Cafe entertained and informed," said Kimberly Park, manager of national consumer education programs for USA Rice.

Outdoor Gardens

A newcomer to railroad gardening, Nancy Robinson, who lives at Long Level, along the Susquehanna River, explains that she got started when she saw the society's display during the York Area Garden Show held at the York Fairgrounds in February.

She was put in touch with Boll who helped her to get started through advice and reading material. "I just loved it. I went crazy over it," Robinson said.

She describes her railroad garden as "little because I'm just starting out," indicating that she too will probably expand as she continues the hobby.

Her tracks are over river stone she brought up from her boat landing in addition to other material she used to make stable.

A friend built her a schoolhouse, a log cabin, a railroad station, and a train station. "He's working on my farm now," she added. "He builds them all for me and I paint them."

Her husband, Palmer Robinson, at first dismissed her plans, but "he got into it and now he's my chief engineer and electrician." He's an electronics lab technician with York International.

"We're kind of at a stand still," she said, "because I had gotten Thomas the Tank Engine — I just love Thomas — and his transformer went bad, now I'm waiting for his transformer to come back," she said.

"Mine's not ready for an open house, but I love to go around to see the others," she said.

NEW VARIETIES FOR 1998

Gardeners are looking for new plants every year. Here are new flowers and vegetables that are featured in 1998 mail order seed catalogs, seed packets, or as bedding plants at garden centers. This is the first in a series.

Aquilegia Flabellata "Cameo" Series. Five-inch (13 cm) "Cameo" is delightful for flowering in 4-inch (10 cm) pots and then planting out as a fully hardy perennial. Cameo's silver-green, compact foliage adds beauty to the garden when not in bloom. Four separate colors and a mix.

Begonia "Eureka" is a new, more vigorous series, designed for superior garden performance, and available in a full range of both green and bronze leaf colors. Plants of Eureka fill beds with color more fully and more quickly. The extra vigor helps them thrive in tough weather, heat and humidity, and they perform equally well in sun and shade. Bronze leaved rose.

Begonia Hortensis "Inferno Series." An interspecific cross has resulted in a very versatile Begonia series, ideal as a bedding plant in mass plantings for the landscape as well as production for hanging baskets and large containers. New to the series is a green-leaf rose, white and pink and a bronze-leaf rose.

Begonia "Super Olympia" Series F1 Hybrid. The Olympia™ Series has earned the reputation for superior greenhouse and garden performance. Olympia is a proven performer in the home garden and for the landscape professional. Super Olympias have 4 separate colors and a "mix," a brighter red, a striking new rose; and a beautiful pink, and white. All this on earlier, more uniform plants with larger flowers.

Bellis "Galaxy" flowers quickly in autumn and can be used as a fall bedding plant along with pansy, or flowering kale/cabbage. It has a pretty semi-double pomponette flower shape with a yellow heart, uniform with compact habit, and will flower continuously all winter in mild areas. In colder areas, it will go dormant and flower again in spring. "Galaxy Red."

Cynoglossum Amabile "Jeans." The colors of the '90s, stonewashed denim-blue. Rich flowering borderplant of approximately 35 cm that keeps ornamental value after flowering for its seedpods turn from green to purple. This Cynoglossum is an excellent choice for trendy near-natural plantings.

Dianthus "Floral Lace Light Pink," a light rose pink, and "Floral Lace True Rose," a deeper rose shade, feature the largest flowers of their type, with lacy, serrated edges. Both of these elegant new varieties are extremely heat-tolerant.

Felicia "Sprint Merchen" from the same family as the well known "Blue Dairy," Felicia heterophylla, Spring Merchen is a dwart, heavily branching plant, especially is sown in the auttumn. The color is predominantly sky blue with a small percentage of pink, rose and purple.

Fuchsia Hybrid "Fete Floral" is a rich and free-flowering fuchsia easily raised from seed. The plant habit is upright and branching stems that become woody with age. The many pendulous blooms are in clusters together in crowded, terminal racemes of a bright red color. They are followed by attractive deep purple berries.

Old Iron Club Plans Antique Days

The Ickesburg Fire Company and the Perry County Old Iron Club present the fifth Annual Antique Days, Friday, October 3 through Sunday, October 5, at the carnival grounds located behind the firehouse in Ickesburg.

The event will begin Friday at noon with tractor registration. The feature tractor for this year is John Deere. At 3 p.m. the food stands will open.

New for 1997 is a limited-edition postcard which you will be able to obtain a cancellation mark at the show grounds. Only 500 of these cards were printed.

Saturday kicks off at 9 a.m. when the flea market, craft area, and all displays of working equipment will open. The working displays consist of antique tractors and automobiles, hit and miss engines, blacksmithing, broom making, threshing of grain, baling straw, sawmill, and hammermill.

The Fall Harvest Parade will step off at 1 p.m. and will feature marching units, floats, antique automobiles, and antique farm machinery. A pedal tractor pull competition is scheduled to be held at 3 p.m. This competition is open to anyone between the ages of three and 103 and is bound to be a fun event to come out and participate in. If you're not interested in the pedal pulls, you can enjoy a BBQ chicken dinner which will also be available at 3 p.m.

Entertainment is scheduled to take to the bandstand from 5 to 8 p.m. After the entertainment is finished, the sky will be filled with a fabulous fireworks display at 8 p.m.

Sunday begins with a community worship service at 8:30 a.m. in the firehouse with 9:30 marking the opening of the flea market and craft area along with the display of working equipment.

A pig roast will be the main attraction for the lunch crowd. The roast will be served starting at noon. Last chance to compete in the pedal tractor pull competition will be at 1 p.m. The horse pulls will begin at 2 p.m. and will wrap up the events for the show.

No charge for parking and there is no fee for admission. Come to Ickesburg, Millerstown exit of 22-322, follow Rt. 17 West. For more information, contact one of the following show officials: Leroy Fleisher (717) 582-4973 or Rich Hoffner (717) 582-7423.

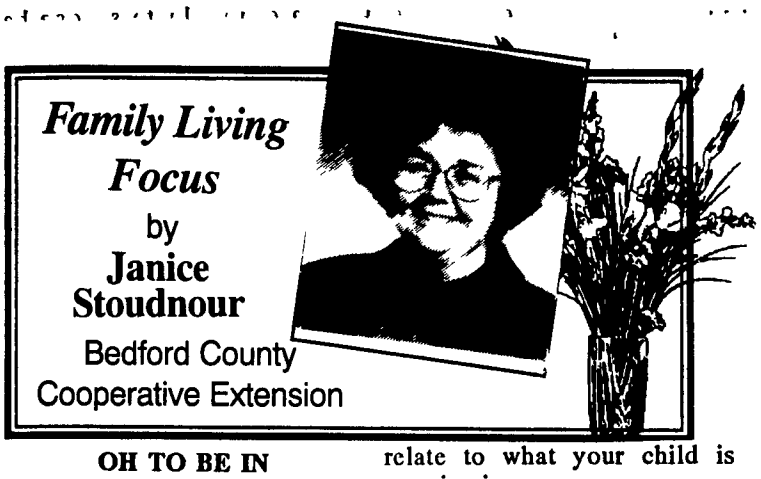
We Ship Anywhere OR Drive A Little Save A Lot!



OH TO BE IN SEVENTH GRADE AGAIN

A couple of weeks ago I attended my youngest son's seventh-grade open house. This was a great time for students and parents to meet the teachers and become familiar with the school layout. While sitting in the auditorium listening to the high school principal speaking (I know I should have been listening to him, but my mind was wondering), I couldn't help but wonder what the other parents were thinking. Were they thinking about their first day of seventh grade? During parents programs I often ask parents to shut their eyes and take a journey back in time to when they were in seventh grade. We travel with our minds beginning at home in the morning, through the school day, and back home again. I ask parents to think about the smells, the colors, the sounds, and the sights. How did they feel when they got home from school? Who were their friends? If you want to get in touch with what your adolescent is thinking and feeling, take this memory trip. You'd be surprised as to how quickly you'll relate to what your child is experiencing.

The principal was still talking when my mind shifted from parents to the students—the class of 2003. Seventh grade is a wondrous time for adolescent development. The most obvious change we see in adolescents is their physical development. It is an understatement to say that their bodies are changing in leaps and bounds. Sometimes, though we often overlook the cognitive, social, and emotional development changes. These are just as important as the physical changes. These are the changes that usually drive parents crazy because they come in the form of eyes rolling, slamming doors, endless phone conversations, and back talking to just name a few.

One of the most interesting things that I observed at the open house was the student interaction. A lot of the girls automatically got into cliques with students they already knew. They would put their heads together and then one or more would turn and smile at a boy sitting with his parent. A quick blush would flash across his face and he would quickly look their way, but not lingering too long or else he wouldn't be cool.

When the schedules were handed out, students that knew each other clung together in hopes of finding a schedule match.

"Yes!" one boy exclaimed, "I have gym and lunch with you!"

Forget the social studies and math, his only concern was having a friend to be with during the most social times of the day. This is a normal reaction for adolescents. This is the stage when they want more than anything to be like everyone else even when they find themselves the least alike. Think about this a minute. It's like taking your daughter shopping and she wants what everyone else has, but she doesn't want the same thing. (If you have a teenage daughter you've encountered this phenomenon, but you didn't quite understand it. As a parent of adolescents, you have to soon realize that logical thinking isn't always the cognitive mode.) I usually shrug it off as a part of this stage of development.

Because puberty follows an individualized biological timetable, your adolescent is in a holding pattern waiting for his or her physical changes. Wouldn't you feel like you're on an emotional roller coaster too if you didn't know when different parts of your body would start or even stop growing? I am sure at least one seventh grader in that auditorium silently questioned, "Am I normal? Am I like everyone else?"

As we traveled down the hall to work our way through the schedule, all of a sudden my son disappeared. I looked around and saw other parents who too had been deserted. I quickly remembered the three hard truths that all parents must accept about adolescents (there are more that we'll discuss at another time):

- They don't want to be seen with their parents.
- They see being close to, or reliant on, their parents as "babyish.."
- They often choose friends over family.

I said sarcastically to another abandoned parent standing beside me, "Boy, wasn't it great going through the schedule with our kids. It certainly made me feel much more secure about the first day of school!"

Another parent exclaimed, "I'll bet they all went for the refreshments. They'll be back when the food is gone." He was right. My son showed up a few minutes later and said not to bother going to the cafeteria, the food was about all gone. Oh yes, he also noted that he needed to complete his task of meeting his teachers. (Eating seems to be a boy's first priority in this stage of development — fill the stomach and the mind will tag along.)

As we approached each teacher, my son reassured each one that he was nothing like his older brother, but was more like his older sister. I guess he felt that this was a good way to prevent any negative expectations any teacher may have just because he does look a lot like his brother. (His sister always told teachers that her cousin was her sister and that her older brother was her cousin. It's tough being the younger sibling. They'll do what they have to do to survive an older sibling's legacy.)

I was amused when one parent standing alone and shaking his head said to me, "You know I just don't understand teenagers. I took my oldest daughter to visit a college that was a five-hour drive one way. I was happy and excited to take her. To my dismay, in five hours time she uttered less than a dozen words to me. On the way back, she just sat and cried. I was speechless. I didn't know what to think."

We patted his back, and shared in his parental pain. As parents of adolescents, it's hard to know when to back off and leave them alone. Then again, it becomes a fine line when to say enough is enough. Welcome aboard the adolescent roller coaster — they're in the front seat and you're in the back hanging on by your fingernails.

I am sure that all parents that attended the open house have hopes and dreams for their children. Many are proud that they have given them advantages they never had; others are determined that they can prevent them from making the mistakes they made. Seventh grade seems to be the gateway to adulthood and the catapult towards becoming a teenager.

What can the seventh grade parents expect from their adolescents this year? Putting moodiness, sulking, privacy, and short tempers aside (these are givens), parents can expect them to be like the caterpillar becoming a beautiful butterfly developing each in his or her own time. A word of advice for parents is to stay involved — school is the heart of the social world your child has now become a member. Don't drop your membership role as a parent. You're the person that they most desperately need now regardless of how they act and the things they say.

Rice: Ancient Grain With Contemporary Appeal

September is National Rice Month. Rice, throughout history, has been one of our most important foods. Today rice sustains two-thirds of the world's population.

Consumption of rice in the U.S. continues to climb. It is estimated Americans now consume 25.6 pounds per person per year.

Eighty-five percent of households report having one or more packages of rice in their pantries.

Over 90 percent of the rice consumed in the U.S. is grown in the U.S.

In 1997, U.S. rice farmers are expected to harvest approximately 3,037 million acres, up from 2.799 million in 1996.

The U.S. is one of the largest exporters of rice supplying about 17 percent of the rice that enters into world trade.

The U.S. exports rice to more than 100 countries.

Rice is one of the U.S.'s oldest agribusinesses, dating back to 1685.

USDA Food Guide Pyramid recommends the largest portion of your diet—6 to 11 servings a day—should come from the group at the base: Rice, bread, cereal, and pasta.

Rice fields provide important habitat for migrating birds, as well as various species of reptiles, birds, and mammals. Rice production can also enhance water quality, with water leaving the rice field cleaner than when it was first drawn.

Request the latest rice recipes by sending a self-addressed business-size envelope to USA Rice Council, P.O. Box 740121, Houston, Texas 77274. If you are interested in a particular aspect of cooking with rice such as Basic Rice Recipes for those with allergies, international rice dishes, cooking with brown rice, and so forth, include your request. The Rice Council is a great resource for tasty recipes.

PORCUPINE

1 pound lean ground beef
1 large egg, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup dry bread crumbs
½ cup diced onion
¼ cup uncooked rice
¾ cup catsup
2 cups V8 tomato juice

Mix together all ingredients except juice thoroughly. Make six small loaves. Place in a greased casserole dish. Pour juice over the mini loaves.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1½ hours. Makes six servings.

SUGAR-FREE EASY GERMAN RICE PUDDING

½ cup long-grain rice
1 cup boiling water
3 cups skim milk
½ cup granulated sugar replacement
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Garnish with cinnamon

Combine rice and boiling water in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and cook uncovered until all the water is absorbed, stirring occasionally.

Stir in the milk. Simmer for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add sweetener and salt continuing to simmer 20-25 minutes or until mixture is creamy and very soft. Stir in vanilla. Serve warm, sprinkled with cinnamon. Yields: 4 servings.

Exchange 1 bread, ¾ cup skim milk. Calories 150.

BREAKFAST RICE CAKES

1 cup cooked rice
3 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon melted butter

In a large bowl, combine warm cooked rice and egg yolks, beat immediately.

Add the remaining ingredients except egg whites and mix together.

Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into the rice batter.

Drop ¼ cup on hot griddle, brown on both sides.

TACO RICO WRAPS

1 pound lean ground turkey or beef
16-ounce jar prepared chunky salsa
3 cups cooked rice
11-ounce can corn, drained
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Monterey Jack cheese
18 flour or corn tortillas, warmed

Brown turkey in large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat; drain fat and liquid, if necessary. Stir in salsa, rice, and corn. Cook over medium heat, covered, for 5 to 10 minutes or until no liquid remains. Spoon ⅓ cup mixture in each tortilla, top with about 1 tablespoon cheese. Roll up; serve.

Makes 6 servings. (3 tacos each).

Lycoming County Dairy Princess Melanie Harris resides in the outskirts of Muncy with her parents Greg and Stephanie Harris and a brother Jeremy. The family farms 145 acres and have a small Holstein herd.

Assisting Melanie in dairy promotion are Alternate Princess Melissa Daily, daughter of Wenda and Richard Daily; and dairy maids, Donnica Grieder, daughter of Jeff and Dona Grieder; and Shelly Vandine, daughter of Ruth and Wayne Vandine.

Here's a recipe that Melanie recommends sharing with neighbors and friends.

BANANA SKYSCRAPER

¼ cup fudge sauce
1 banana
½ cup vanilla ice cream
½ cup chocolate ice cream
Whipped cream
Maraschino cherry

Quarter a ripe banana cutting lengthwise and then crosswise. Place 2 tablespoons fudge sauce in the bootom of a sundae dish. Add vanilla ice cream. Place banana quarters upright with pointed ends up. Add chocolate ice cream. Drizzle with 2 tablespoons fudge sauce. Top with whipped cream and a cherry.

Ida's Notebook

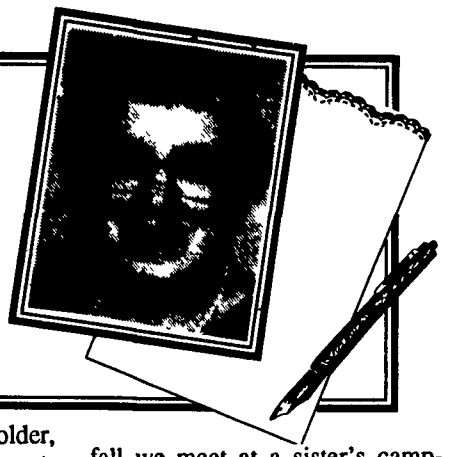
Ida Risser



It seems that as folks get older, they make a greater effort to get-together. Maybe they realize that there are just so many years left.

My husband has three brothers who live in three different counties and they are planning a meal together. I have four sisters, who live in three different counties, and we gather regularly. In the summer we have a picnic, in the fall we meet at a sister's campground, and at Christmas they come to our home.

Recently a retirement party for a cousin, brought family together. This lady retired from a nursing career to care for her grandchildren while her daughter is teaching school. It was an act of love.

Even communities bind together for the betterment of the citizens. An example would be the picnic held by the Oregon community at the local church grounds. After the food was eaten and the children's games were all played, the group settled down for a discussion of the area's problems. Even a small community can have traffic problems, crime, and pollution.

It was interesting to hear some historical facts about the area such as the number of covered bridges and the type of industry in the early 1900s. Especially fascinating to me was the present number of industries in the immediate area. The group listed 16 businesses.

Long ago the village had a butcher shop, cigar box manufacturer, blacksmith, and a grain mill. Today the mill houses two businesses, a barn has an antique shop and the 1776 hotel and store are now an upscale restaurant.

Extension Offers Food Safety Course

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Does your church group, fire company or public service organization serve meals to a crowd? Penn State Extension is offering a program for cooks, servers, and organizers on the basics of safe food handling practices. This refresher could make the difference between a great fundraiser and a food poisoning outbreak that could damage your group's reputation and finances. A workshop is scheduled on September 25 from 8:00 a.m. to noon at the Farm and Home Center. The cost is $5. Pre-registration is requested. Call Lancaster County Cooperative Extension at (717) 394-6851 for information. Additional workshops may be scheduled for your group by contacting the Extension office.

Effective Discipline

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Learn effective discipline for children ages 4-7. Miriam Gavigan, a nationally certified counselor, will teach the class to be held at the Berks County Ag Center on Thusday, Oct. 9, form 7-9 p.m. Cost is $5.

Make check payable to Berks County Extension Special Account, and mail your name, address, and phone number to Homemaker's Newsletter, Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks Co. Ag Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533.

BLOWS THE COMPETITION AWAY.

Hesston's Model 7155S blows the competition away with its efficiency and strength. It starts with the reel-type cutting cylinder. The tungsten-carbide–hardened knives slice through the crop mat without wasted power. Wide spacing between the cutterhead knives moves crop through without a lot of bunching or carry-over.

"Straight-Thru Crop-Flow" also helps you put more power into cutting and less into crop handling. You'll get maximum forage for every fuel dollar.

See it at your AGCO Hesston dealer today, along with a wide selection of equipment for all your hay and forage needs, all backed by the AGCO Warranty Program. And ask about flexible financing through Agricredit Acceptance Company.

QUESTION — Betty Jakum, Litttlestown, writes that she has successfully made sauerkraut for more than 15 years. However, this year, the cabbage she shredded and salted in a crock stopped fermenting after only one week. The mixture has not gone bad, but it has a different consistency and only a hint of the yellow color of sauerkraut and not much taste. Does anyone know what she had done wrong? She used pickling salt and placed a weighted plastic bag on top of the mixture. Perhaps some of the water in the bag leaked out, she drained off the excess water, but it hasn't helped. Any suggestions on how to save this batch?

QUESTION — Carl Schintzel, Rockaway, N.J., remembers his mother used to make seasoned rice with cubed pieces of veal in it, which cooked all day on a wood or coal range. He doesn't remember the name or any other ingredients it might have contained, but the mixture was made in a deep gray graniteware lidded pot.

QUESTION — Michele Powlison, Millerton, writes that she milks goats and would like some recipes for goat cheese. She would also like to know where to purchase rennet tablets.

QUESTION — A reader would like a recipe for chocolate zucchini bars, which was made with chocolate chips.

QUESTION — Mary Dengler, Middletown, Ohio, would like a recipe for 10-grain bread that tastes similar to that made by Roscoe Village Bakery in Coshocton, Ohio.

QUESTION — Anna Martin, Denver, would like a recipe for stewed tomatoes.

QUESTION — A reader from Stewartstown would like a recipe for a brownie made from a German chocolate cake mix, cream cheese, and miniature chocolate chips.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V. would like to know where to buy vegetable rennet to make cheese. She writes: When a recipe calls for a rennet tablet, can liquid rennet be used, and how much?

For feta cheese, can she substitute cow's milk instead of goat's?

For yogurt, when she buys acidophilus cultures can she substitute 2 tablespoons homemade yogurt for the next batch?

Does anyone make sharp cheddar cheese in the home? If so, please send explicit instructions.

QUESTION — Renee Nissley, Middletown, has mammouth sunflowers in her garden and needs to know how to roast the seeds.

QUESTION — Marlene Martin, Ephrata, would like to have a recipe for a lemon poppy seed cake that is very moist.

QUESTION — Mrs. Blair Smith, Zebulon, Ga., would like a recipe for "Cake in a Jar," which is baked in a jar.

QUESTION — Mildred Hess, Myerstown, wants recipes using tomatillos, which are tennis ball-size, papery husked fruits that resemble ground cherries but bigger.

QUESTION — Cindy Sides, Ellicott City, Md., writes that a recipe for honey mustard pretzels was previously printed in this section. She clipped out the recipe but has been unable to find the required packaged mustard or honey dijon dry salad mix. She would like to know where to purchase it. Readers, I know there is also a recipe that doesn't required the dry mix. Does anyone have it?

QUESTION — Betty Kellicutt, Auburn, would like a recipe for Queen Anne's lace jelly, which she had but lost.

QUESTION — A subscriber would like a quick and easy recipe for cinnamon raisin bread such as made by Pepperidge Farm Style or Stroehmann's Dutch County—a recipe where the raisins don't sink to the bottom but are distributed thoughout the entire bread.

QUESTION — Linda Bupp, Westminster, Md., would like a recipe for a no sugar added angel food cake.

QUESTION — Grace Rumer, Abington, is looking for a recipe for individual crumb buns with cheese pockets. Her husband ate some, which he said were delicious, on the Ocean City Boardwalk in New Jersey.

QUESTION — Catherine Shearer, Greencastle, writes that Sandy Hartman of Westfield had sent in a recipe for homemade hot dogs, which she forgot to cut out. She'd like it printed again. Since we don't have the recipe in our files, did anyone clip the recipe. If so, please send it in.

QUESTION — Rita Hodun, Calverton, NY, would like the recipe for apricot and honey marinade for spare ribs, etc.

QUESTION — Violet Cassner, Newburg, lost a recipe for ham baked in Coco Cola. She recalls that the ham was soaked in Coco Cola overnight in the refrigerator, and then baked with a caramel glaze.

QUESTION — Stephanie Huger, Meyerstown, is looking for a recipe for pumpkin strudel with poppy seeds and sour cream or cream cheese. Her grandmother from Hungary made it, but Stephanie lost the recipe.

QUESTION — Cel Brown of West Chester wants the recipe for a bread mix like the ones in the store called Daily Bread Company's. These mixes can be made ahead of time.

ANSWER — Linda Helms of Ephrata wrote that she is canning and preserving jams and jellies to sell. She is looking for new and exciting jam, jelly, and marmalade recipes. Here are some recipes from Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., and from Sue McKinsey, Windsor.

Pumpkin Preserves

8 pounds pumpkin
8 cups sugar
3 lemons
1 teaspoon salt

Cut pumpkin into slices ¼ -inches thick and 1-2-inches long. Place in earthern bowl or preserving kettle, add sugar and let stand overnight. Drain and boil liquid until it threads. Add pumpkin, thinly sliced lemons, and salt. Cook mixture until it is thick and clear. Seal while hot in clean, hot canning jars.

Garlic Jelly

½ cup finely chopped garlic
3 cups white wine vinegar
2 pouches (3-ounces each) liquid pectin OR 2 boxes (1¾ -2-ounces each) dry pectin
Food coloring (optional)
2 cups water
6 cups sugar

In a 2½ -quart pan, combine garlic and vinegar. Simmer gently, uncovered, over medium heat for 15 minutes. Remove from heat and pour into a 1-quart glass jar, cover and let stand at room temperature for 24-36 hours.

Pour flavored vinegar through a wire strainer into a bowl, pressing garlic with the back of a spoon to squeeze out as much liquid as possible, discard residue. Measure liquid and add more white wine vinegar if needed to make 2 cups.

To use liquid pectin: In a 5-6 quart kettle, combine flavored vinegar, water and sugar. Bring to a full, rolling boil over medium high heat. Stir in pectin and bring to a boil that cannot be stirred down. Boil, stirring constantly, for one minute.

To use dry pectin: In a 5-6 quart kettle, combine flavored vinegar, water, and pectin. Bring to a full, rolling boil over medium high heat; then stir in sugar. Stirring constantly, bring to a boil that cannot be stirred down and boil 2 minutes. If desired, stir in 2 drops red, yellow or orange food coloring. Skim off foam, spoon into hot ½ pint jars. Top with lids and bands.

Place jars on a rack in a canning kettle and cover with boiling water. Bring to simmering and simmer for 10 minutes. Lift jars from canner and set on folded towels to cool. Before storing, test for a good seal; refrigerate any jars that did not seal. Makes 7 one-half pint jars.

Garlic Jelly Cream Cheese Appetizer

8-ounces cream cheese
Garlic jelly
Unsalted crackers

Place cream cheese on a small board or plate. Generously spread garlic jelly on top and allow to run down sides. Accompany with crackers and a spreading knife. Serves 8.

"This is delicious. If you like garlic, you will love it. If you don't like garlic, you might like it anyway. It is similar to green pepper jellly that is served over cream cheese," writes Sue McKinsey.

Sugar-Free Strawberry Jam

¾ cup diet lemon-lime soda
3-ounce package strawberry-flavored gelatin
1 cup mashed fresh or unsweetened frozen strawberries
1½ teaspoons lemon juice

In a saucepan, bring soda to a boil. Remove from heat. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Stir in berries and lemon juice. Put in suitable containers and refrigerate up to three weeks. Do not freeze.

Lyme Disease Poses Silent Danger

WINDSOR (York Co.) — It strikes silently without warning, anytime during the year. After the attack it may take days, weeks, or months before you notice something is wrong, a silent invisible stranger has infected you. Your life quite possibly will never be the same again. You begin to observea change in your body. Eyesight could become poor, headaches may occur. Suddenly you are too fatigued to do your daily routines. The beating of your heart seems affected. You may tell someone "my bones hurt," "muscle ache." One or more large joints are sore. Memory becomes poor and filled with confusion. You might find yourself getting lost. An unexplained paralysis of the face could occur (Bell's Palsy). Balance is affected, walking becomes extremely difficult or impossible. Sore throats, fevers, an unexplained rash could appear. These are all possible symptoms caused by this stranger! Fear begins to take over!!

You see a doctor, and blood tests are ordered, diagnosis possibly flu, After many negative medical tests you see a specialist. Seeing your doctors frequently it may finally be suggested, "perhaps you are stressed," and advised to seek counseling. Family and friends lose patience with you and begin to shut you out. Your job suffers and your employer questions your ability. You begin to fear that maybe, just maybe you are losing your mind! Then you read an article like this which raises some issues, and a possibility. The answer for hundreds of people each year is —you may have, LYME DISEASE! (Lyme disease is caused by a microscopic bacteria transmitted to humans and animals through the bite of a very small tick called the Ixodes Scapularis, commonly called the Black Legged or Deer Tick in the northeastern and north-central United States.)

Getting rid of those annoying hang-ups in your operation is easier than ever.

The new SURGE® One Touch™ makes stanchion milking as easy as this. A lightweight, gun-grip design integrates the milk line and pulsation connections into one simple process. Yet it's built incredibly tough to handle the real world demands of the dairy barn.

Most importantly, One Touch brings high-tech automation to stanchion operators with two optional management modules.

The TIMEKEEPER™ II module signals you when the cow finishes milking and displays how long she took to milk...promoting fast, consistent milking that leads to better udder health.

The Milk Yield Module measures individual cow production and milking time, allowing instant analysis of each cow's performance.

By putting today's production information at your fingertips, the SURGE One Touch lets you capture your cow's performance in the palm of your hand.

Camper Teams Mold Sand Champions

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) — Rainbow colored ribbons were just one of the rewards for a job well done for . . . playing in the sand!?!

That's how some Grange Fair campers in Centre County finished their summer.

They formed teams, then entered the Sand Castle Building Contest at the encampment playground.

Sixteen teams dug, pushed, plowed, and patted sand into creations designed to catch the judges' eye.

While they "worked" feverishly, judge Harriet Roseberg sat on a park bench and thought feverishly. She needed 16 titles for awards, for every child on every team would take home a beautiful ribbon.

Hmmm . . . let's see. Most creative. Best teamwork. Best use of natural resources.. Most ag related. How about . . . Most likely to collapse!

The Grange Fair

The 123rd Grange Encampment and Fair in Centre Hall is one-of-a-kind. The seven-day event boasts daily crowds of more than 25,000.

In the encampment more than 950 green Army-like tents stand at attention shoulder to shoulder with little, if any, breathing space. The 1,300 campers know space is at a premium. But even more valuable is the chance to even camp there at all!

That's why generation after generation of families camp at the Grange Fair. They look forward to seeing their Grange friends, plus it gives them a front row seat to nationally know entertainers in the Grandstand and more than 7,500 items exhibited for the $40,000 in prize money.

Meanwhile, Back At The Playground . . .

When the time is up, Harriet and her friends announce each award. Each child reaches up for his or her own rainbow colored ribbon as parents and onlookers admire the sand creations. They see starfish, race tracks, igloos, and tunnels. Lots and lots of volcanoes. And of course, sand castles!

With more than 1,300 campers in more than 950 tents, children soon learn to use space wisely. Here, a group of campers from the Bellefonte and Jersey Shore areas lined up their shoes (without being told!) before building their castle. They won the Best Castle Award but deserved the Neatest Shoes Award!

The Best Tunnel Award went to team 5.

Not just dreaming of castles in the sand, a group of cousins and friends from the Aaronsburg area work on their sand creation, "Rollin' Into the Grange Fair. Their structure, complete with ramps and tunnels, won the Most Original Game Award.

These kids from Bellefont were camping at the Grange Fair with their grandparents. They built the Best Speedway.

Norman and Sandra Seibert's children joined forces to build the castle with the most tunnels. The family lives in Virginia Beach, Va. Sandra's been a Grange Fair camper for 37 years.

Why does this problem occur? Why can't a person get help? Lack of education and no standard tests make Lyme disease difficult to diagnose and at times to treat.

Dr. Dale Tavris M.D. MPH, past director Division of Acute Infectious Disease Epidemiology, Pennsylvania, states "The public should know that there is virtually no county in Pennsylvania which is known to be free of this disease." Lyme disease is a reportable disease, and recent statistics tell us that Pennsylvania consistently ranks second or third in the nation with reported cases of Lyme disease.

Unfortunately, these statistics are not entirely true. Cases are suspected of being much higher, because the Centers for Disease Control requires a Lyme disease patient to have a positive blood test, or rash with known tick bite in order to be reported. It is estimated only 50 percent - 60 percent of people get a rash. There are no standard tests and each laboratory reads the tests differently. How unfortunate, the disease has a "95 percent cure rate when detected early." (Lyme Disease Foundation) Dr. Kenneth B. Liegner an expert on Lyme disease says "You can have Lyme disease with a negative blood test. Negative blood tests are a real phenomenon, occurring in both early and late cases." Dr. Liegner also states the "many patients with active Lyme disease will remain undiagnosed or be dismissed as "misdiagnosed" until widespread availability of a "gold standard" test."

"Lyme disease related illnesses, absenteeism and loss of productivity cost American businesses hundreds of thousands of dollars annually." (Lyme Disease Foundation) Too many Lyme disease patients are losing their jobs — a serious problem when you consider many of them become totally disabled. This represents another cost to society.

What is the answer to this confusing, difficult to diagnose, and misunderstood disease?

EDUCATION!

During the past six years First Capital Lyme Network, a local non-profit organization has grown from 10 chronic Lyme disease patients to a datebase of 1,000. The patient advocacy and educational programs are some of the best in the State. This debilitating and sometimes chronic disease can be prevented through proper education. Everyone can continue enjoying the great outdoors without fear and with good health.

For more information on lyme disease, write to First Capital Lyme Network, 115 Valley Rd., Windsor, PA 17366.

Trail Ride To Benefit Therapeutic Riding Program

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County 4-H Therapeutic Riding Program has scheduled a fund-raising trail ride Sunday, September 28, at the Fair Hill Natural Resources Management Area, Fair Hill, Maryland. The 15-mile ride will be held rain or shine, with registration from 10 - 10:45 a.m. and the ride beginning at 11 a.m. A rider must provide his or her own horse and be at least eight years of age to participate.

Riders are asked to collect sponsorships totaling at least $25 or pay an entry fee of $20 to ride. All proceeds from the Trail Ride will benefit the therapeutic riding program in Lancaster County.

For further information on the ride or to obtain registration and pledge forms, please call (717) 335-3139 or (717) 284-2020.

Maryland FFA Safe Tractor Operator's Contest

Taylor Sines of the Oakland FFA chapter won the first place plaque in the Safe Tractor Operator's contest Aug. 28 during the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

The Safe Tractor Operator's Contest is sponsored by Eastern Equipment Dealer's Association as a special project of the Maryland FFA Foundation. The second place individual for the contest was Adam Mathews of the Walkersville FFA chapter.

According to the contest superintendent, Dr. Lee Grant, of the Department of Agricultural Engineering at the University of Maryland at College Park, there were 12 regional representatives registered. The contest consisted of three components — a written examination, safe tractor operation, and a problem solving activity. Each student drove a tractor through two courses, one with a two-wheel implement and one with four-wheel implement towed behind. The students were evaluated during the driving section on safety, time, and accuracy while driving the course. In the problem solving, each student was given a tractor that would not start and had to find the problem and correct it.

Taylor Sines won first place in the Maryland FFA Safe Tractor Operator's Contest.

Producer Believes Mattresses Keep Cows Cool, Comfortable, Productive

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.) — Can cows be too comfortable?

Sometimes, stall mattresses are so comfortable that the cows don't even want to leave the barn.

Just ask dairyman Tim Barlow of Pinta Lane Farm Holsteins.

Mattresses installed in January of 1995 help the cows so much that sometimes, Barlow said, "we can't get the cows out of the barn."

Cow comfort has proven to be a big factor in milk production. The more comfortable you make a cow, dairy experts agree, the more healthy it will be — and the more milk it can produce.

Barlow, who farms with wife Phyllis and children Angela, 12; Krystal, 10; and Steven, 8, in addition to hired help, noted that using the mattresses contributes to a long list of items that have helped him achieve high milk production on his Chester County farm.

Barlow said it was a combination of "good cows, good feed, and good herd health," along with genetics, that helped him achieve a herd average on DHIA of 24,000 pounds.

Another big factor in cow comfort in the barn is the tunnel ventilation installed in the spring of 1995, a pivotal year for improvements. The tunnel ventilation draws fresh, cool air through the stalls.

Barlow also employs hired help at the farm, including herdsman Mike Pratt and part-time help from Ken Shivery and Milton Edwards.

The Barlows care for 90 registered Holsteins along with 90 heifers.

In January 1995 Barlow installed 78 cow mattresses filled with chipped car tires and sneakers at a cost of $5,000. The mattresses were made in Canada.

Barlow insists that the mattresses have gone a long way to improve herd health and, consequently, herd average.

"If I had to put them in every year, I'd do it," he said.

The mattresses, laid in individual tiestalls, include a top cover of straw to allow even more comfort and as further protection to the covers. The outside of the mattresses is made up of a tough, resilient nylon that sheds water and other material. The rubber pieces are contained in a cloth material underneath the tough, sturdy nylon.

The only challenges Barlow faces with using the mattresses is potential for tears or rips in the mattress. Water can seep in and cause real problems, he said. Cost to replace each mattress is $70.

Barlow, who has been dairying for 25 years, believes too many dairy farmers are concerned with spending a lot of money on bedding but don't believe mattresses are worth the investment.

But the mattresses provide a softer, cooler environment for cows.

And when cows are relaxed, they create more milk.

Barlow also makes use of a TMR by a nutritionist.

Farm responsibilities are shared by the whole family. Tim's wife Phyllis keeps the books. Angela Barlow, 12, is in the seventh grade in the Oxford school district and helps with a wide range of barn chores. Krystal, 10, in the fifth grade, helps with calf feeding along with Steven, 8, in the third grade.

Full-time help is provided by Mike Pratt, herdsman, and part-time help from Ken Shivery. Ken helps mostly with odd jobs, said Barlow. Milton Edwards, a retired dairy farmer, helps with crop work.

Tim Barlow began working for Ben Beiler about 25 years ago.

For a number of years, Barlow was in partnership on the farm with Beiler. Then, in 1988, Barlow purchased the business and rents the land from Beiler.

Mattresses installed in January of 1995 help the cows so much that sometimes, Tim Barlow said, "we can't get the cows out of the barn." The mattresses, laid in individual tiestalls, include a top cover of straw to allow even more comfort and as further protection to the covers.

In the early summer, Tim Barlow, standing, far left, was cutting and baling barley straw with help from family and friends. In front with Tim are his wife Phyllis and hired man, Ken Shivery. In back are, from left, Krystal Barlow, Mike Pratt's daughter Nichole, and Angela and Steven Barlow.

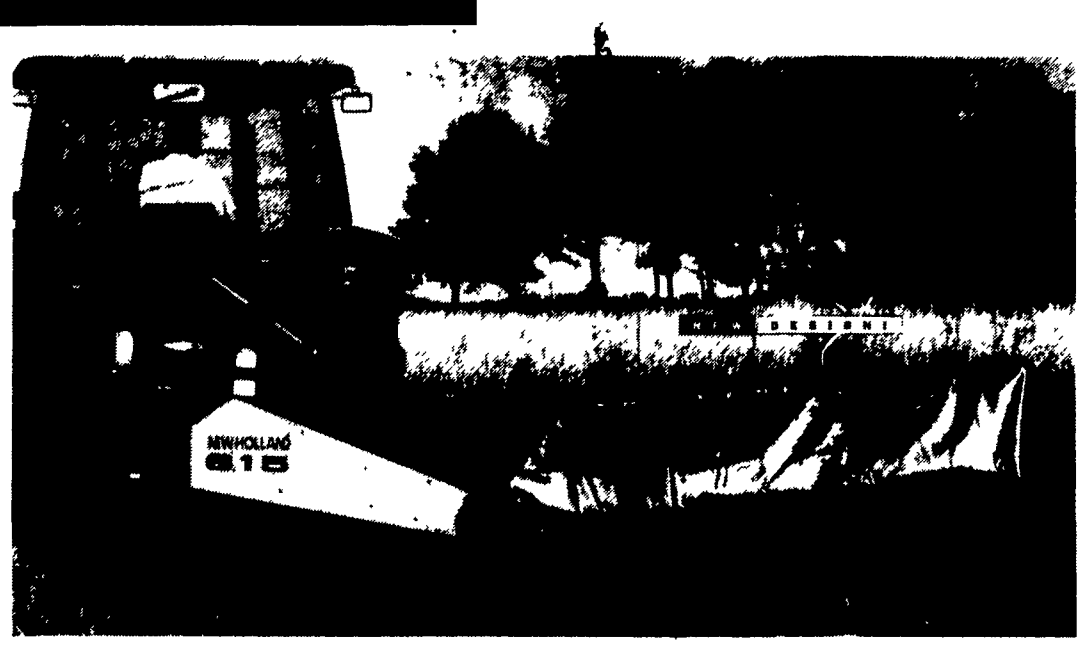
Travel as fast as ground conditions will allow with the new five-six and seven-disc modular cutter-bars They breeze through the toughest conditions with non-stop, trouble-free cutting for clean, even cut in less time

Tough-with a quiet side New Holland disc mowers are redesigned for quieter operation They're tough on crops, but easy on you

Strength of design

The New Holland design uses small-diameter, steep-profile discs that act as a "natural lifter" for your crop Their special shape improves crop flow, reduces streaking, and leaves you with a fluffier swath for improved drying Smoother profile discs provide better wear and long life Unlike competitive design, New Holland discs don't have a ribbed surface to wear out Discs are 3/16" thick and heat-treated for added strength and impact resistance



ADADC Trains Dairy Princesses To Promote Industry

MORRISVILLE, N.Y. — County dairy princesses from across New York State enjoyed three days of educational workshops, camaraderie, and fun at the Dairy Princess Training Seminar held July 9-11 at Morrisville College.

Sponsored by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC), the seminar prepared participants for an upcoming year of representing the dairy industry and promoting its products.

Deborah Mathers, ADADC industry relations administrator and coordinator of the seminar, wants to make it clear that county princesses play a vital role in dairy promotion efforts.

"Dairy princesses generate over $100,000 worth of publicity each year," she said. "With the training they received at seminar, 1997's promoters are on their way to another successful year."

In addition to the county princesses in attendance, New York State dairy princess Alison Littlefield of Watertown, Alternate Dairy Princess Melissa Osgood of Bliss, and 2nd Alternate Princess Lois Lewis of Great Valley, were also on hand. Three three role models assisted in the planning process and carried out several activities. Among their responsibilities were "get to know you" activities, school presentation workshops, and a basic product knowledge game.

Rick Naczi, ADADC chief executive officer, addressed the participants to illustrate ADADC's importance in the marketplace. Highlighting several of ADADC's effective promotional programs, Naczi also spoke of the princess' local efforts as complements to ADADC's mission statement. Many participants enjoyed the opportunity to understand their role in the overall promotional picture.

As promoters of the dairy industry, effective communication skills are a must. Princesses learned and practiced these skills during workshops on interviewing techniques, school presentations, and public speaking. Since effective communicators need to know what they are talking about, state princesses ran a basic product knowledge quiz game. This was a fun way to test and reinforce knowledge of dairy products.

Brenda Beltram, ADADC communications director, conducted a workshop dealing with controversial media questions. "It is important for county promoters to be able to respond to tough questions from the media, consumers, and especially animal rights activists," she said.

"By reviewing questions and professionalizing responses on video, the workshops provided the training necessary to handle on-the-spot questions and general speaking with confidence."

Now that they have received training in the multiple aspects of dairy promotion, princesses and their alternates will put their skills to use in the real world by conducting school presentations, writing news articles, and carrying out other activities promoting the dairy industry. These experiences will prepare them for the New York Dairy Princess Pageant in February and for their future careers, whatever field they choose to pursue.

Marianne Browning Recalls Lifetime In Farming

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, Md. — Not many people can say they have been involved in agriculture and witnessed its evolution throughout almost the entire twentieth century. Marianne Browning can. Born in 1909 to a farm family near Bartholows in Frederick County and later married to a local farmer, Mrs. Browning has been active in farming and farm organizations all her life. Now 88 years old and a resident of Homewood Retirement Center in Frederick, Mrs. Browning maintains a keen interest in the local farming community she has always been a part of.

Marianne Engle was born to John A. "Allie" Engle and Laura Gertrude Watkins Engle in 1909. The Engles had grown up together in the small farming community around Bartholows near Kemptown, attended school together there, and were both active in the Kemptown Methodist church.

As a child Marianne grew up in this community. She was an active 4-H member, and liked to make clothes and show animals. She had a Jersey calf she showed at the state fair, but she didn't like to be in the spotlight. "I mostly did behind the scenes work." Mrs. Browning says, "I never aspired to be farm queen."

As a young woman, she attended Western Maryland College in Westminster for three years, studying biology and the sciences and homemaking. She left college in 1929 when she married her childhood sweetheart, William H. Browning. Just like her parents had, Mrs. Browning and her husband had grown up together in the same small community, attending the same school and church. She has since lost her husband to a heart attack.

Mrs Browning's father set the young couple up in farming on a farm adjoining his in 1929. They started out milking eight or nine Holsteins. "My farm is on the Bartholows-Kemptown road. It was a dairy. We built a house on top of the hill so that you could see the Blue Ridge mountains," said Mrs. Browning.

After her father's health failed they acquired her home farm, and then through inheritance, purchase, and gifts they amassed several more farms. Around 1940 they built a new 60-cow barn to house the expanding dairy herd. "We didn't get any rest but our hired man did," recalls Mrs. Browning.

The Brownings joined the fledgling Frederick County farm bureau after their marriage. The farm bureau had been organized in 1921. "My mother and father were members, and we joined because we took them to it. We had the meetings at people's houses. When a whole bunch got together, we had to meet at someplace where they could all fit, and we had those in different places like the fire hall," said Mrs. Browning.

The women's committee was started in 1939 with 13 members as the Associated Farm Women of

MILK. IT DOES A BODY GOOD.™

Marianne Browning Recalls Lifetime In Farming

Mrs. Marianne Browning has enjoyed a lifetime's involvement in farming and the farm community in Frederick County. She is still active in the Farm Bureau Women's Committee, and attended the annual luncheon last fall celebrating the county Farm Bureau's 75th anniversary.

Frederick County. The women selected Mrs. Harry Davis as their first leader. As a group they discussed current topics, and from the very beginning, sent a representative to the annual state farm bureau convention each year.

Mrs. Browning served as the chairperson of the Frederick County farm bureau women's committee from 1961-65. "I used to, when I was a leader, have the meetings at my farm," recalls Mrs. Browning. By that time the women were active in securing new members, implementing programs to fund the Frederick County Farm Museum Association, the county 4-H camp and activities center, and collecting "Pennies for Friendship." "We collected a lot of money for that, and we used it for things like charities and sometimes we gave to the fire company because they always needed money. The men were supposed to get the (new) members, but sometimes they fell short on the job, so we'd go out and get the members," she explained.

Mrs. Browning's career in Farm Bureau continued when she was selected as secretary at the state level in the late 1960s. Later she served as state parliamentarian, and as historian and chaplain for the county.

While Mrs. Browning contributed so much to the Farm Bureau, she was also very involved with the county homemakers, where she made old-fashioned Christmas ornaments each year and dressed up in period costume for the public at Rose Hill Manor in Frederick. She also served as secretary of the Kemptown Methodist church, and was on "almost all" of the committees there.

She did all this while raising four sons: Reyburn, Bill Jr., Robert, and Tom, who all worked on the farm when they were growing up. All four of her sons have enjoyed success in their chosen fields. Tom still lives on the farm, but he is not farming it himself right now.

The Brownings were one of the first farm families in the county to adopt soil conservation practices. The Civilian Conversation Corps came to their farm in the 1940s and built terraces, cleared out fencerows, and got them started on contour strip farming to maintain the soil. It was a real turning point for the success of the farming operation, and at that time there wasn't anyone else around them using terraces, ponds, and plantings to hold the soil.

Last year the Frederick County Farm Bureau celebrated its 75th anniversary. A luncheon was held to mark the anniversary, and Mrs. Browning was able to attend. There she was honored as one of the living past chairmen of the women's committee. Having dedicated so much of her life to agriculture and farm bureau, she is considered a treasure among members of that community. think."

Seven Sweets And Sours Festival Celebrates Pa. Dutch Tradition

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — What started as a simple gathering 23 years ago, to celebrate the end of the garden, has grown into one of Kitchen Kettle Village's most popular events — the Seven Sweets & Sours Festival that's always held the third weekend in September, rain or shine. This year's dates are Thursday, Sept. 18 from 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Friday, Sept. 19 from 9 a.m.-8 p.m., and Saturday, Sept. 20 from 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

The Sweets & Sours Festival is a tribute to one of the most intriguing aspects of Pennsylvania Dutch cuisine — where the bounty of the garden is preserved as delectable condiments and relishes, to enjoy alone or as a side dish to a main course. Every inch of the Village grounds will be tied into the Sweets & Sours theme, from food tastings and the sharing of recipes to the colorful end of the garden creature displays featuring far-out critters made from corn husks and other natural materials. In between there's a winter quilting bee, pumpkin painting, cookie decorating, corn shucking and watermelon seed spitting contests (for the kids), and local artists making scarecrows. Entertainment will be provided by "Banjo Jimmy and his Sidemen."

Then there are the special events.

• Thursday from noon to 2:30 p.m. and Friday 5-7 p.m. try the World's Only Foot-Powered Ice Cream Maker run by Lapp Valley Farm Ice Cream. This restored 1800s farm thrashing machine (originally powered by mule) is now foot-powered by visitors who take 1½ -minute turns to churn an ice cream maker. It's probably the most inefficient way to make ice cream, but certainly a lot of fun. For their effort, each participant earns a free sample of Lapp's Ice Cream — an exclusive at Kitchen Kettle made at the Lapp family farm, and one of the smoothest, richest ice creams made in the U.S., bar none!

• From 1-4 p.m. Friday and Saturday, learn "How to Transform a Pumpkin into a Centerpiece," an ongoing fall floral demonstration by Shreiner's Flower Shop.

• All day Friday, check out the Chicken Barbecue that is run by the Intercourse and Gordonville Fire Companies and held under a tent rain or shine. The barbecued chicken is available for take-out or eat-in, and the Ladies Auxiliaries of both fire companies will offer items to complete the meal.

• In addition, Kitchen Kettle founder Pat Burnley will introduce the new fall '97 through spring '98 Kitchen Kettle Village Catalog, called "Lancaster County Cooks toss new recipes into the pot." As Pat explains, "For Years, we've talked about all of the people who have contributed to our vast file of recipes that illustrate the use of jams and relishes as a cooking ingredient. We thought it was time to introduce the cooks to the public, because they are unbelievably creative when it comes to inventing new dishes, or new ways of doing things to save time."

Of course, the heart of this festival is the Jam & Relish Kitchen, where the making of Chow Chow is always one of the most popular food demonstrations and tastings. Fresh batches of Pickled Watermelon Rind will also be featured, along with the popular Corn Relish, Pepper Relish (both hot and regular), Onion Relish, Pepper Jam, Tomato Jam, Pumpkin Butter and Pickled Beets. Brand new for this year's festival is a sweet spread called "Peanut Butter Schmier," which tastes like a nutty fudge with a hint of brown sugar and is wonderful smeared over homemade bread, on ice cream, between chocolate chip cookies! The Bake Shop will feature Brownies with Peanut Butter Schmier Frosting as a festival special.

At stands and shops throughout the Village, and at the Kling House Restaurant (open 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.), visitors will enjoy all types of foods using relishes and preserves as cooking ingredients, including Grilled Chicken Breast with a Raspberry Applesauce Glaze, Harvest Quiche, Grilled Beef Tenderloin on a bed of Corn Salsa, Grilled Ham Steak with Cider Raisin Sauce, and Ginger French Toast with Apple Raisin Topping. There will be old favorites to enjoy like candied apples, chicken corn soup and pumpkin whoopie pies.

This event is open to the public free of charge, with plenty of free parking on the Village grounds. Kitchen Kettle Village, which features Kitchen Kettle's famous Jam & Relish Kitchen as well as 34 food, artisans' and crafts shops, is located on Rt. 340 in the Village of Intercourse, Intercourse, PA 17534. HAPPENINGS

Paws & Tails

At the last meeting before the fair, on Aug. 11, the club members walked their dogs in circles, practicing commands and routines they've been working on: heel, sit, stay, left-about turns, about turns, recalls, finishes, sit/down, and immediate down — which is a life-saving command.

Irish Hill Shamrocks

A club meeting was held Aug. 8 at Forest Lake Township Hall. The pledge was led by Seth Everitt, roll and dues were taken, and Megan Fetterman read the minutes and a card from the Red Cross.

Leader Fran Small asked the members to tell their age and what projects they were taking to the fair. Demonstrations were presented by Chantal and Shaloam Birchard, Jake and Justin Smith, Chris Stanis, and Jaime and Liz Holbert.

4-H'ers Win At Two Horse Shows

Twenty-three Dauphin County 4-H'ers won ribbons at the District Six 4-H Horse and Pony Show held at the Lebanon County Fairgrounds on Aug. 16 and four 4-H'ers placed at the District Horse Production Show on Aug. 21 at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds.

Participants in the Horse and Pony Show were evaluated on how well the rider and horse perform together. Depending on the division, the top two or three place finishers at the Horse and Pony Show will go on to compete in the Pennsylvania State Horse Show on Oct. 24-26 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

At the Horse Production Show in Shippensburg, youth competed in their raising and breeding projects. Judging was based on the horse's confirmation. At the production show, only blue ribbon winners are eligible to compete in the State Horse Show in October.

At the Horse and Pony show the combination of Christie Laudenslager, Lykens, Jason Kramer, Dauphin, and Megan Deveney, Enola captured first place honors in the county team competition. Laudenslagaer was a double winner, taking her second blue ribbon in pleasure horse driving.

Allison Reigle, Halifax, led a Dauphin County sweep of individual competition in saddle seat equitation senior division with Reigle; Amy Klinger, Dauphin; and Kristin Brown, Harrisburg taking one - two - three, respectively, Reigle was also a double winner, taking an additional blue ribbon in saddle seat pleasure.

Ashley Shiffler of Hummelstown was also a double winner, taking blue ribbons in hunter seat equitation and senior English grooming and showmanship. A fourth double winner for Dauphin County was Christie Berchok of Dauphin who took blue ribbons in hunter seat equitation over jumps and hunter under saddle horses. Melissa Peters of Harrisburg won the working hunter horse division.

In the Pleasure Pairs category, Tasha Wagner, Hummelstown and Jason Kramer, Dauphin teamed up to place second, while Kate Proctor, Harrisburg and Jessica O'Neal, Hummelstown paired up to take third.

At the District Horse Production Show held at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds Dauphin County 4-H'ers also were top place finishers. Kristin Showers, Halifax, took the blue ribbon in hunter type yearling gelding, and Kaitlin Showers took first in Morgan yearling colt. Amy Cave of Grantville won hunter type filly of the year. Jennifer Rudy, Halifax, placed 2nd in stock type yearling gelding.

Kristin and Kaitlin Showers and Amy Cave qualified to compete in the production divisions at the State Horse Show in October. Berchok, Reigle, Shiffler, Laudenslager, Kramer, Devaney, Peters, Amy Klinger, Beth Klinger, Wagner and Todd all qualified to compete in the horse and pony divisions at the state show at the Farm Show Complex.

Compact Tractor, Engineering 4-H Winners

Garrett County representatives from Western Maryland were new challengers for championship honors in the 4-H "Learn to Earn" compact tractor contest held Aug. 23 on opening day of the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

Meanwhile, contestants from neighboring Carroll and Baltimore counties shared top honors in the 4-H small engine contest. A Montgomery County resident won top honors in the state 4-H electric/energy contest for the fifth consecutive time.

Shawn Bender, 14, of Accident (Garrett County) was the senior champion among six contestants in the compact tractor event. Justin Watt, 15, of Middleburg (Carroll County) placed second. Justin won the junior championship last year.

Christopher Dixon, 13, of Shawsville (Harford County) won championship honors among eight contestants in the junior age category. Jeremiah Guard, 14, of Friendsville (Garrett County) was runner-up for the second consecutive year.

Jason Sellman, 16, of Wards Chapel (Baltimore County) won the senior 4-H small engine championship after placing a close second in this category last year. Brian Owings, 15, of New Windsor (Carroll County) placed second.

Adam Brower, 13, of Taneytown (Carroll County) won the intermediate-age championship in 4-H small engine competition. Jason Fringer, 9, of Smallwood (Carroll County) received junior second-place honors.

Sam Evans, 11, of Griffith Park (Montgomery County) won the junior 4-H electric/energy contest. His brother, Ben Evans, was the 1996 winner in this event.

Twelve-year-old Lloyd Hardman III of Cumberland (Allegany County) placed second for the second year in a row. There were no senior contestants.

Senior division winners in last week's state fair compact tractor and engineering contests are eligible to represent Maryland in the National 4-H Engineering, Science and Leadership Event, scheduled Sept. 21-23. For the third consecutive year, this event will be held at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind., and the Tippecanoe County fairground across the Wabash River in Lafayette, Ind.

Paws And Tails

The club held its meeting on July 21. The members started with heeling and a few stays, then had some fun with the tire jump, bar jump, and the broad jump. They did more heeling and then went into figure eights.

The day was finished by doing an exercise with the agility equipment. They had to go through the tire jump, bar jump, broad jump, weave around boxes, and do a sit-stay on a card table.

At the July 28 meeting, members and dogs started out with heeling, then did sit, down-stays, and stand-stays. They also did heeling tests. Heeling tests are when the dog is put on a sit-stay, takes two or three steps in any direction, and then is told to heel.

DAYCO SUPER II V-BELTS

Now there's a belt that beats the toughest drive problems.

Many heavy duty industrial machines demand more than conventional wrapped v belts can stand Their punishing drives make ordinary belts crack under pressure The result unnecessary and expensive downtime

Now there s a solution to the consistent costly problem of replacing or retensioning belts It s the revolutionary new Super II™ v-belt from Dayco The Super II belt was designed specifically for the most brutal applications And its performance blows the cover off conventional wrapped belts

In heavy torque high horsepower and extreme shock load comparisons it s not even a contest The Super II v-belt is stronger more flexible and lasts far longer

Innovative design & construction provide extra strength and stamina

The secret to the Super II v-belt s durability is its unique construction The central position of the polyester cords in the neoprene rubber core provides greater strength balance and longer life Multiple fabric plies top and bottom enhance flexibility And Dayco s unique raw edged construction gives it a better grip for controlled slippage

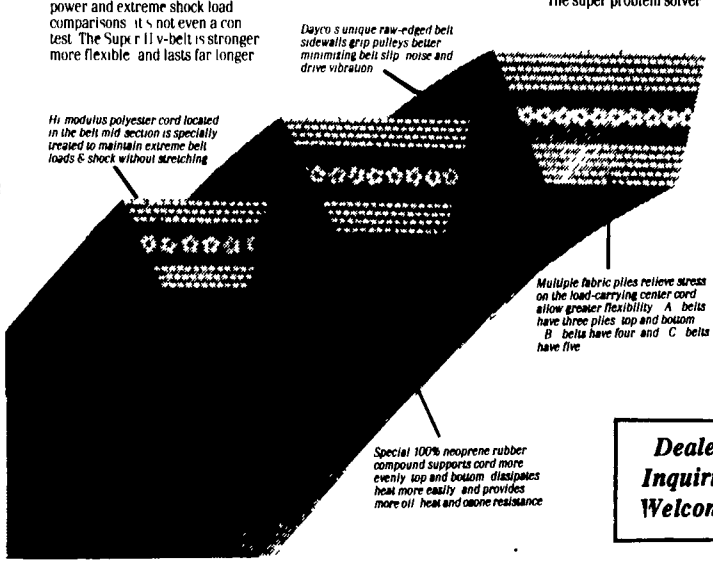
Test the Super II v-belt on your toughest drive

The Super II v belt was field tested for two years on the most severe applications rock quarry shaker screens lumber mill tree debarkers and pipe descalers In every case it outperformed conventional wrapped belts by a wide margin But the only test that really counts is the one you do on your own equipment

Try the Super II belt on your toughest drive problem You ll be so amazed by its incredible endurance that you ll want to put it on all your drives In fact we re so sure you ll be pleased with the performance of the Super II v-belt that in the unlikely event you re not satisfied we ll refund the original purchase price or replace it with a conventional wrapped v-belt

The Super II v-belt from Dayco The super problem solver



Dayco s unique raw-edged belt sidewalls grip pulleys better minimizing belt slip noise and drive vibration
Hi modulus polyester cord located in the belt mid section is specially treated to maintain extreme belt loads & shock without stretching Multiple fabric plies relieve stress on the load-carrying center cord allow greater flexibility A belts have three plies top and bottom B belts have four and C belts have five
Special 100% neoprene rubber compound supports cord more evenly top and bottom dissipates heat more easily and provides more oil heat and ozone resistance

Diabetic Cookbook Proves Healthful Cooking Is Also Tasty

MANKATO, Minn. — The "Diabetic Goodie Book" is filled with recipes for cheesecakes, cookies, cobblers, pies, and other tasty desserts. These recipes are for diabetics and anyone else who loves to eat desserts without feeling guilty.

Written by Kathy Kochan, who had diabetes since the age of 5, the recipes are ones that not only diabetics can enjoy but also family and guests. The recipes use low-fat ingredients, small amounts of sugar, and little or no added salt.

"I look forward to dessert after dinner and refuse to watch everyone else enjoy their desserts while I munch on a piece of plain fruit," said Kochan.

"Healthy people with diabetes can incorporate sugar into recipes as long as carbohydrates are calculated and worked into their meal plan," Kochan said.

Because Kochan does not use artificial sweeteners, most of the recipes are prepared with fruit for natural sugar and sweetness, or small amounts of sugar and fat.

"Managing your diet doesn't have to mean cheating your sweet tooth," said Kochan.

New guidelines for managing diabetes call for counting carbohydrates. "The Diabetic Goodie Book" explains in easy-to-read language how to control fat, carbohydrate, cholesterol, and sodium. Complete nutrition analysis, diabetic exchanges, and new carbohydrate counts are included for each delicious recipe.

The softcover 256-page cookbook is the result of Kochan's experimentation. She is also a cooking instructor with the Joslin Diabetes Clinic in New Jersey and teaches classes on living with diabetes without complications.

"The Diabetic Goodie Book" is available at bookstores or by calling the publisher Appletree Press, Inc. at 1-800-322-5679. Mail-order cost is $15.95 plus $4 shipping.

Here are a few recipes reprinted by permission of Appletree Press.

CHOCOLATE CLOUD CAKE

Egg whites make this nonfat chocolate cake light and airy. Prep time: 15 min. Bake time: 20 min. Serves: 8. Serving size: 1 slice. Exchanges: 1 fruit (1 carbohydrate choice). analysis per serving: 63 calories, 14 g carbohydrate, 3 g protein, 0 g fat, 0 mg cholesterol, 204 mg sodium, 0 g fiber.

⅓ cup cocoa
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
4 large egg whites, at room temperature
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup sugar
Confectioners' sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Have an 8-inch round cake pan ready. Place cake pan on a piece of wax paper. Trace pan and cut out wax paper to fit on bottom of pan: set aside.

In 1-cup glass measuring cup, use a small whisk to mix cocoa and water. Microwave on high one minute, stir, micowave 1 more minute or until thick and smooth. Stir in vanilla; cool. In separate small bowl, blend flour and baking powder together. Set aside.

In large bowl, with electric mixer at high speed, beat egg whites and salt until foamy. Gradually beat in sugar at high speed until soft peaks form when batter is lifted with rubber spatuala. Immediately add cocoa mixture and beat just until blended; scrape sides of bowl. Use a rubber spatula to fold in flour mixture just until blended. Do not overmix.

Pour into prepared pan and smooth top with rubber spatula. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until top cracks and looks dry and pick inserted in center comes out dry. Place cake, still in pan, upside down on wire rack on top of peice of wax paper that has been sprayed with cooking spray; cool 20 minutes. Turn right side up; remove wax paper from top of cake and run knife around sides of pan to loosen. Carefully turn out onto rack to cool;p remove wax paper; turn right side up. Cool completely, about 30 minutes.

To serve, place doily over cake and sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Carefully remove doily.

NO-BAKE PEACHY RICOTTA CHEESECAKE

A tasty no-crust cheesecake. Prep time: 20 min. Chill time: 4 hrs. Serves: 10. Serving size: 1 slice. Exchanges: 1 skim milk, 1 very lean meat, and 1 fruit (2 carbohydrate choices). Analysis per serving: 173 calories, 23 g carbohydrate, 15 g protein, 2 g fat, 64 mg cholesterol, 248 mg sodium and 1 g fiber.

2 16-ounce cans juice-packed sliced peaches
Pasteurized dried egg white for 3 egg whites
Water
4 tablespoons sugar, divided
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
3 large egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon almond extract
3 cups nonfat ricotta cheese
½ cup nonfat dry milk powder
1 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons dried orange peel or grated fresh orange peel
½ teaspoon dried lemon peel or grated fresh lemon peel

Have all ingredients at room temperature. Drain peaches; set drained peaches and juice aside. Spray a 9-inch springform pan with cooking spray.

In small bowl, beat dried egg whites and water with electric mixer at high speed until soft peaks form. Gradually beat in 2 tablespoons sugar until stiff peaks form when lifted with rubber spatula; set aside.

In 4-cup glass measuring cup combine remaining 2 tablespoons sugar and gelatin. With same beaters, add egg yolks and beat at medium speed until well blended, scraping sides occasionally; beat in vanilla and reserved peach juice. Microwave gelatin mixture on high for 3 minutes, stir and microwave another 2 minutes or until mixture comes to a boil; set aside to cool.

In food processor or blender, process ricotta and dry milk until smooth, scrape sides. With machine running, gradually drop in one cup of reserved peaches just until small pieces of peach are visible; scrape sides. In large bowl, combine peach mixture, gelatin mixture; lemon juice and dried peels; mix well. Use a rubber spatula to gently fold beaten egg whites into peach mixture until no white streaks remain. Pour mixture into prepared pan, spreading evenly.

Slice each peach slice into 2 thin slices and arrange slices on top of cheesecake in a circular manner. Cover with plastic wrap so wrap does not touch cake and refrigerate at least 4 hours or overnight.

To serve, use a sharp knife to loosen cake from pan. Remove sides of pan, leaving cake on pan bottom. Place on serving plate. Cover and refrigerate leftovers.

Bees Bring Contaminants Home To Analyze

NEWARK, Del. — In days gone by, canaries warned coal miners of the presence of the explosive gas, methane. In modern times, scientists have used bluegill fish to monitor water quality in streams.

Now researchers are looking to the honey bee to detect pollution in the environment.

"Bees pick up contaminants from everywhere — air, water, soil, and plants," said Dr. Dewey Caron, cooperative extension apriculturist at the University of Delaware. "They ingest water and nectar from flowers, and electrostatic charges on their bodies pick up pollen and dust particles."

Like flying dust mops, bees bring contaminants with them back to the hive. By analyzing the bees and the air in the hive, said Caron, scientists can identify what chemicals are in the area and monitor changes in the environment.

Caron is taking part in a study known as Bee Alert that is using bees as pollution monitors. The project, a five-year collaboration with the U.S. Army Center for Environmental Health Research at Fort Detrick, Md., is being conducted by Dr. Jerry Bromenshenk and a team of researchers from the University of Montana.

Bromenshenk's team is monitoring three sites at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., where the Army once manufactured chemical weapons. Last spring, they installed high-tech electronic hives, each containing 7,000 to 10,000 bees, at a hazardous waste landfill; on the former site of a chlorine plant; and on a farm owned by a hobbyist beekeeper.

Caron's part in the project is to monitor the bee colonies over the winter. Last fall, the 28 hives were brought to UD's Experiment Station in Newark, where Caron collected data from October through April. He will keep an eye on them again this winter.

"We want to find out how useful bees are year-round as indicators of changes in the environment," said Caron. "Monitoring the hives in the winter also gives the study better continuity."

Compared with doing ongoing chemical sampling, maintaining beehives is an expensive way of monitoring the environment. And the monitoring stations are more cost-effective than they used to be, said Caron. The bee colonies he is using are smaller than those used in other studies — too small, even, to produce honey.

Honey production is not necessary for the study, explains Caron, because honey is not a good pollution indicator. A naturally-processed food, honey is virtually contaminant-free. Instead, researchers analyze the air in the hive, the bodies of the bees, and bee activity levels.

Six computers — one that keeps track only of weather — record changes in the hive day and night. Hive air is analyzed for organic compounds, and the bees' bodies are checked for traces of inorganic compounds such as lead and arsenic. Flight activity, in-hive activity and bee death rates, which can increase or decrease with environmental change, are also monitored.

"So far, much of the research has focused on collecting baseline data on honey bee behavior so that anomalies can be determined more easily," said Caron. "Natural changes in the environment such as nightfall, rainfall and the approach of a storm front cause bee activity to decrease, as does the beekeeper's practice of applying smoke to the bee hive. With a baseline for this type of normal fluctuation, we can detect environmental problems such as pesticide applications or chemical spills as soon as they occur."

Normally, the onset of winter brings a dramatic decrease in bee activity. Caron was surprised that the bees were as active as they were. Bees left and entered the hive on about half the days — enough, says Caron, to give useful information on their surroundings.

"Although this winter may not have been typical, the data show that there is a longer season for monitoring than we had thought," he said.

Caron was also pleased to learn that the bees' winter location in Newark appeared to be pollution-free. No abnormal chemical incidents were detected during the winter.

West End Fair Presents Awards

JUDITH PATTON
Union Co. Correspondent

LAURELTON (Union CO.) — At the recent West End Fair, 47 exhibitors presented a total of 157 entries in the open and youth dairy show to Judge James Kahler of Wellsboro.

Emerging as supreme champion was C Watavue Flora Broker, a 4-year-old Holstein shown by John W. Rishel.

Flora was the grand champion of the open Holstein show, which had 73 competitors. The reserve champion Holstein was Garstlyn Broker Reba, exhibited by Douglas and Jennifer Boop in the senior 2-year-old class. The youth show Holstein champion was Kevin Gessner's 5-year-old, Ritter-Ridge Ryan Peach, with reserve going to Korey Zimmerman for Zi-SK-CH Vanguard Angel Amy, also a 5-year-old.

In the Jersey show, the grand champion among the 52 entries shown was also exhibited by Doug and Jennifer Boop, J & K

Cassey Croner Is Somerset Fair Queen

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — Cassey Croner managed to keep a graceful appearance and be selected the Somerset County Fair Queen. In spite of a torrential rain that found the six contestants walking on limestone sand in the show arena instead of on the stage fronting the grandstand.

"The rain made everyone more nervous," the 16-year-old said. "Being in a closed place, you could see everyone."

One of the questions put to Cassey, a junior at Berlin-Brothersvalley High School, was to describe what, in a hypothetical situation, she would say to a little girl in 4-H who was showing a [illegible]

Cassey said she would tell the newcomer that it was all right, that she was winning just by trying and if it would make her feel better, Cassey would buy ice cream for her.

The daughter of Norman and Carol Croner, Berlin, Cassey said she was encouraged to vie in the fair queen competition by her sister, who two years ago did so herself.

With college in mind, the fair queen scholarships bestowed upon the college preparatory student are welcome.

She is a seven-year member of the Milksquirts 4-H Club, a member of Valley 4-H Club, member of county council, and a 4-H camp counselor.

the varsity cheerleading squad fill her school days.

Additionally, she's a part-time employee at Somerset Hospital, does volunteer work, and keeps fit with swimming.

Her church membership is at Holy Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Berlin.

Jenna Svonavec, daughter of Joe and Rose Svonavec, and senior at Rockwood Area High School, was first runner-up.

Jessica Ashbrook, Berlin, received the speech award. Lauren Lynch, Somerset, received the interview award.

Youth Fair Presents Awards

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

REEDSVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — A show ring veteran in his final year of 4-H swept top honors at the Mifflin County Youth and Open Dairy Show in Reedsville recently.

Andrew Reed of Reed Gap Farms near Reedsville earned supreme, grand, and senior champion, best udder and best bred and owned awards with his 4-year-old Reed-Gap Starbuck Enchantment.

Reed's 5-year-old, Reed-Gap Triple Threat Lida*RC, won reserve grand and reserve senior champion. Reed's final entry into the ring was to accept the premier exhibitor and premier breeder banners.

Earlier in the show, two first-year 4-H'ers took junior and reserve junior champion honors. Kristi Sellers of Belleville entered Hike-Em-Up D Star Abby, a spring calf sired by Darkstar, to earn the junior champion trophy.

J. Dane Glick, also of Belleville, earned reserve junior champion with his summer yearling, Glickdale Skybuck Raisin.

Two Linebacks made their debut this year. Jacob Savitts of Milroy entered a summer yearling Lineback for a blue ribbon. Chelsea Wagner, also of Milroy, entered a Gloucester winter dairy calf. Wagner earned grand champion while Savitts took reserve champion.

During the awards ceremony, the Ora Sunderland 4-H Awards for excellence went to Christopher Uhland of Lewistown and Rachel Sellers of Belleville. Afterwards, friends and family members of the late Erika Bell planted a tree at the Mifflin County Youth Park in her honor. Bell, an active member of the Vira 4-H Club, was killed in a car accident in July.

KA Equestrian Center

It was a hot day for the July schooling show held at KA Equestrian Center, Cochranville. Cold drinks sold well, and the shade that surrounds the ring and covers most of the parking area was most appreciated.

Attendance was good, in spite of the heat, with particularly strong competition for the cash pleasure awards and in the short stirrup division. The early-in-the-day halter class was also popular.

This show was one of a series between KA Equestrian and Grazing Acres Farm in New London.

A new award this year recognizes the trainer bringing the most competitors to the KA Equestrian Center - Grazing Acres Horse Shows. (Dawn McCuen of KA Equestrian is excluding herself from this competition.) A trainer who brings a large group to one show has as good a chance of winning as a trainer with fewer entries over several shows, and vice versa.

Another series show is scheduled for Oct. 12 at KA Equestrian Center. Call (610) 255-5009 or (610) 869-0746 for information and prize lists.

4-H Camp Brule

Thirty-six Union County 4-H'ers recently enjoyed five days of rustic camping at Sullivan County's 4-H Camp Brule.

Along with campers from Bradford, Sullivan, and Susquehanna counties, they participated in the in-depth morning workshops of their choice.

In the afternoón the campers tried their hand at crafts, archery, riflery, leatherworking, dancing, and sketching. They also enjoyed swimming, fishing, and boating on Elk Lake. Evenings were filled with campfires, songs, and other activities. The last night was celebrated with a movie and a dance.

4-H Horse Show

The 1997 District III 4-H Horse and Pony Show was held at the Wayne County Fairgrounds in the new arena.

The district show is held for the purpose of choosing people to represent District III at the state show which is held at the end of October in the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. The six counties that sent participants were Luzurne, Lackawanna, Schuylkill, Monroe, Carbon, and Wayne. Wayne County sent 21 equestrians to the event and had 11 4-H'ers qualify for the state show.

You ask you answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

ANSWER — A Finger Lakes, New York reader wanted to know if a large block of cheddar cheese can be cut and dipped in paraffin to keep it from becoming moldy. Thanks to Mrs. David Weidenhammer, Bernville, for writing that she read in Rodale's Basic Natural Foods Cookbook: ". . .for extended keeping, you can seal the cut surfaces of cheese with hot paraffin."

That is all the information the book offered on dipping. The article also suggested wrapping the cheese tightly and refrigerating for 2 to 4 weeks or to tightly wrap and freeze for up to six months. Cheddar is one of the cheeses most successfully frozen. Freeze cheese in one-inch thick pieces and use quickly after thawing. If cheese becomes hard and dry during storage, use it for grating cheese for spaghetti, vegetables, soups, biscuits or casseroles. However, if the cheese grows mold, discard it, because some molds contain dangerous aflatoxins.

QUESTION — Dan Rigez, R 1, Box 343A, Harveys Lake, PA 18618, writes that he stays home with the children and enjoys making soap. He is searching for old big candy or soap molds. Any soapmaking supplies or ideas would be greatly appreciated.

An impressive sale

DUNWALKE EYE D16
Sale #26 — One of his young sons selling.

This is a high-quality, young offering primarily from Dunwalke Farm's 600-head operation. The farm's cows are practically managed outside year-round. Roughage utilization, fertility, soundness and composition are emphasized. Twenty-one Polled Hereford steers from the herd had a 3.51 ADG for 127 days in the severe weather last winter at the Oak Ridge Feedlot in Iowa. The farm's replacement heifers measured 1.15 sq. in. REA/cwt. this spring.

Dunwalke Farms has exhibited the most champions of any exhibitor at the Polled Hereford Breed's Standard of Perfection Shows at the Keystone International, Eastern National, New York State Fair and Eastern States Shows during the past five years. The 1997 Houston Stock Show Reserve Grand Champion Female (pictured) was purchased from the farm last fall in Sale X. Over 40 select heifer calves sell in Sale XI.

Exceptional young bulls for progressive purebred and commercial herds will sell. Plus selected guest consignments from several other of the Northeast's leading herds. All herds are certified and accredited. Trucking available.

OPEN COWS WANTED

If you have one or more good dairy cows that you can't get pregnant; call me. I can use about 100 cows. I will feed an all natural mix; breed them and give you first chance to buy the cow back pregnant. Every cow will be bred to a $100.00 A.I. bull; and seven to eight months pregnant when I sell her at the fair market value. You save money on hauling and shrinkage and I will pay you a little extra for the better cows.

The last time I rán an add for Open Cows Wanted; I got a lot of calls from Dairymen wanting to know what I am doing; then they wouldn't sell me the cow after I told them; so I will just tell you now. I use Formula M on your cow; breed to a $100.00 bull and sell her back to you seven or eight months pregnant. The success ratio is near 100%; but if you know the cow to be cystic; please tell me when you call; because the procedure is different for cystic cows. I will take cystic cows; but it will be helpful if I know they are cystic when I buy them.

I am only interested in the better cows with GP, VG or EXC. Mammary.

Chris Stoltzfus

P.S. If you just want to know what I use; call 1-800-327-0727 and save me the time and expense of returning the call.

Researchers To Study Used Mushroom Compost

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A team of Penn State researchers will study mushroom substrate, the medium in which commercial mushrooms are grown, with an eye toward the best recycling method.

The Pennsylvania mushroom industry, the nation's leading producer of commercial button mushrooms, uses more than 500,000 tons of compost each year. The growth medium is composed of a mixture of straw, hay, and horse and other manures, and is composted before use.

"The compost is used for about two months and then discarded," said Dr. Patrick G. Hatcher, director of Penn State's Center for Environmental Chemistry and Geochemistry and professor of fuel science and geosciences and chemistry. "The spent mushroom substrate must be weathered for two years before it can be reused."

The mushroom industry has identified potential uses for this substrate as a soil amendment or potting media, in mine reclamation and wetland establishment. Other uses may be possible, but not much is known about the weathering of the spent substrate or the leachate that drains from the compost when it is spread over a field to weather.

Hatcher; Dr. C. Peter Romaine, associate professor of plant pathology; Dr. Jon Chorover, assistant professor of environmental soil chemistry; and Dr. Richard H. Fox, professor of soil science, will analyze and characterize the weathering compost over a three-year time span.

This joint College of Agricultural Sciences and College of Earth and Mineral Science project is sponsored by MIFBAR, Mushroom Industry Farmer-Based Applied Research project, a legislative initiative to increase the use of mushroom soil. The research is funded at $186,000 for the first year.

The project will be carried out on farm land owned by Vincent Santucci, operator of Elite Mushrooms in Avondale, Pa. A series of lysimeters — containers that will catch the liquid that leaches out of the substrate — were built at the surface, just below the level of the compost and, then three feet below that.

The researchers will take water samples from these lysimeters following precipitation events to assess leaching from the piles of spent mushroom substrate. They will also take solid samples from the top, middle and bottom of the weathering compost at three-month intervals. Water and compost samples will be analyzed for both organic and inorganic composition.

"A multitude of methods will allow us to evaluate the trends in carbohydrates, proteins, lignin and other organic species as a function of weathering," said Hatcher.

Other analysis will investigate the soluble salt contents of the compost and the nitrogen content and composition. The leachate collected from the lysimeters will be analyzed for the same organic and inorganic contents.

"When we are done, we should know what is going on in the weathering compost, what is leaching out of the compost and what the final composition of the compost is," said Hatcher. "We will then know how the spent mushroom substrate can best be reused and how to weather it in the best way for both the environment and recycling."

Farm Bill Overhauls Agricultural Conservation

NEW ORLEANS, La. — The 1996 Farm Bill is reshaping the way U.S. agriculture deals with conservation of the country's natural resources, the acting associate director of the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service told attendees at the National Resource Management Planning Conference here recently.

The key to the landmark Farm Bill can be summarized as "transition," said Gary Margheim, acting associate chief of the NRCS.

Just as the new Farm Bill moved the American farmer from an era of price supports to an era of free market agriculture, it also marks the "transition into a new conservation era for the next century," Margheim said. "It will be an era where our producers will be rewarded for being good conservationists."

Programs and initiatives dealing with conservation in the 1996 Farm Bill are a recognition of the "phenomenal progress" made in conservation efforts by farmers in the past, and a recognition that the U.S. farmer and rancher is the world leader in developing sound land and water management policies and techniques, Margheim said. The new programs will further enhance U.S. land management practices and will be based on programs developed at the local level by local people, acting voluntarily, he said.

The conservation programs are part of the Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform (FAIR) Act, otherwise known as the 1996 Farm Bill. The programs include the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), the Wetlands Reserve Program (WRP), the Environmental Quality Improvement Program (EQIP), the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP), the Private Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative (GLCI) and the Conservation Farm Option (CFO) Program.

Each of the conservation programs has individual applicant requirements, different funding levels, varying contract lengths, and provisions to eliminate duplication among various programs.

Gary Nordstrom, acting director of conservation operations for the NRCS, said a major feature of EQIP is that 50 percent of its resources will be devoted to livestock. Whether livestock or farm based, the program will be closely monitored to see that it is attaining maximum benefits for the federal dollars spent. Contracts for the program will be for five to 10 years. Seventy-five percent of funding for individual EQIP contracts go to cost sharing for structural and vegetative practices.

Under the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program, anything not a "plant or mineral" will be eligible for funding, said Jeanne Christie, national program leader for WHIP. Included are species found in wetlands, uplands, as well as aquatic species, Christie said. The maximum for an individual contract is $10,000 per contract per landowner.

Significant program emphasis needs to be placed in the area of grasslands, Christie said. Various types of grasslands are among the most fragile ecosystems in the country, she said, adding the vulnerable nature of grasslands has caused some of the most serious wildlife survival problems in the U.S.

Gary Westmoreland, national coordinator for the Grazing Lands Conservation initiative, echoed Christie's observations on the fragile nature of the nations grasslands. He pointed out that while grazing lands make up more than half of the private land area in the U.S., the technological assistance to those programs has been declining.

When grazing lands are mentioned, Westmoreland said, the popular image is western range land. He emphasized that grazing lands range from Arctic tundra to the Great Plains to coastal marsh.

Because of the broad scope of the land types everyone has a direct stake in how those lands are managed.

The final provisions of the program will be published in the Federal Register in the next month, according to Dan Smith, team leader for the CFO program. Those who choose to participate in CFO will not be eligible for participating in CRP, WRP or EQIP. The central goal of CFO is to test innovative conservation technology and whole farm planning, as well as new program administrative procedures, Smith said.

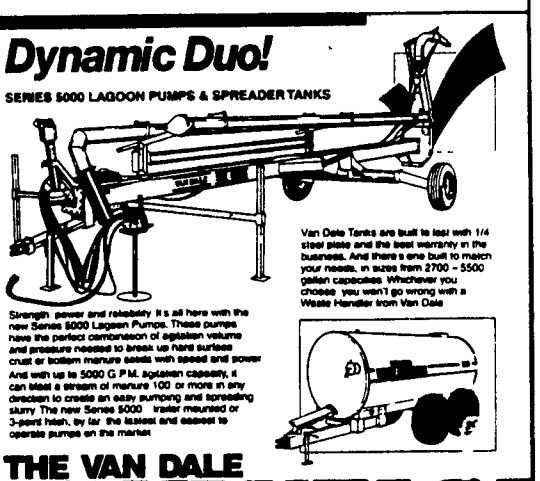
For Your Fall Lagoon Cleaning



Dynamic Duo!
SERIES 5000 LAGOON PUMPS & SPREADER TANKS
Van Dale Tanks are built to last with 1/4 steel plate and the best warranty in the business. And there's one built to match your needs, in sizes from 2700 - 5500 gallon capacities. Whichever you choose, you won't go wrong with a Waste Handler from Van Dale Strength, power and reliability. It's all here with the new Series 5000 Lagoon Pumps. These pumps have the perfect combination of agitation volume and pressure needed to break up hard surface crust or bottom manure solids with speed and power. And with up to 5000 G.P.M. agitation capacity, it can blast a stream of manure 100 or more in any direction to create an easy pumping and spreading slurry. The new Series 5000 trailer mounted or 3-point hitch, by far the fastest and easiest to operate pumps on the market.

HERE'S THE STRAIGHT SCOOP ABOUT RICHARDTON HIGH DUMP WAGONS

Seems like some folks are always trying to catch up And sometimes they'll do just about anything to get ahead But you know that for over 35 years Richardton high dump wagons have been the best in the business and in the field So get the best —Hitch up a Richardton Wagon today

What the competition says about Richardton Wagons	The truth about Richardton High Dump Wagons
Cylinders and cables	Our exclusive patented lock cylinders ensure that the box won't tip over. Our cable system allows you to top off a truck load with a partial dump. You're not restricted to a full dump cycle. And, you save time because there are no master/slave cylinders to purge.
Over two minute cycle time	ALL cycle times depend on your tractor's hydraulic system! We designed our wagon to cycle in less than one minute.
12GA. steel on entire hopper	Our 12GA. steel construction is absolutely the most cost effective and strongest on the market. It's that way today and it's been that way for over 35 years.
Internal braces welded to flat steel	We'll say it again — Richardton wagon components are the strongest and best built on the market!
300# rated standard black pipe fittings	Flared hydraulic steel tubing with 5,000 PSI rated fittings are standard on Richardton wagons
¼ " wall material	Our ¼ " walls withstand decades of hard use. And, just so you know, we use 5/16" where necessary.
3½ " x 3½ " slide tubes, steel on steel	Others copy our original heavy duty nylon no-grease slide system. There is NO metal on metal at any time!

When you need BETTER TRACTION • GREATER FLOTATION • TIRE PROTECTION

Get more production from your skid loader with Tire Crawler tracks The man who invented the skid loader also designed the unique shape of Tire Crawlers They float over soft ground, bite slippery surfaces, cling to your tires and pivot turn easier than tires alone

This means that you enjoy the advantages of a crawler tractor without the huge investment and high cost of repairs
With Loegering Tire Crawlers your skid loader will push more, climb better, be more useful plus save you time and money

- EASY ON-EASY OFF
- SELF-CLEANING
- ADJUSTABLE
- SMOOTHER RIDE
- FIELD PROVEN
- DURABLE CARBON STEEL
- PATENTED

Sand, snow, mud – Tire Crawlers keep your loader moving under tough conditions.

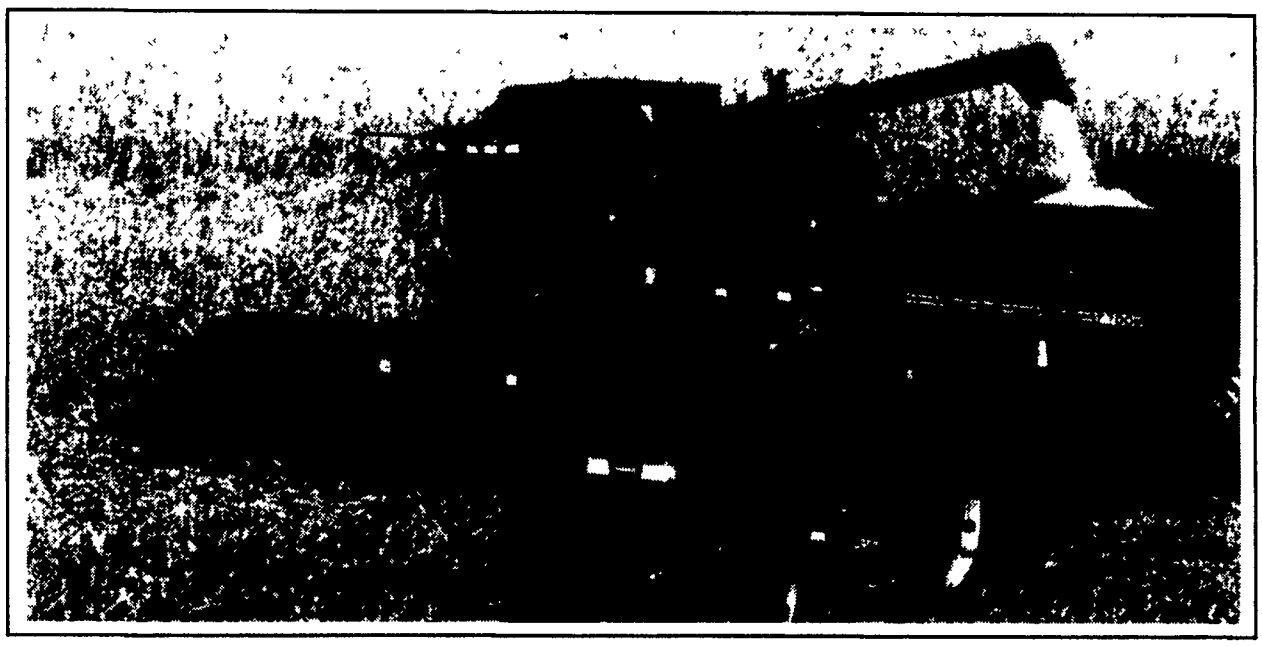
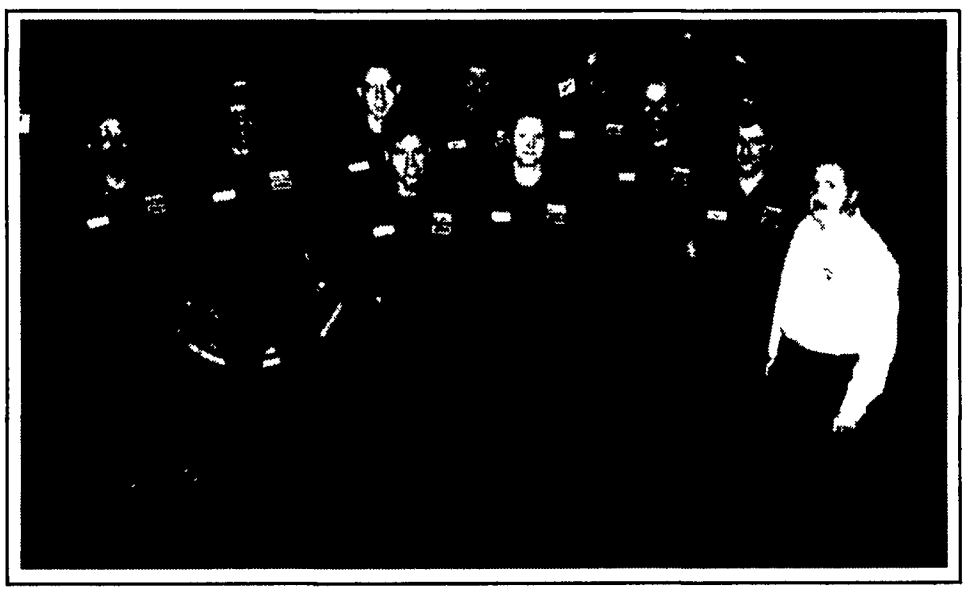
AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE

Happy 20th Birthday!
to Case IH AXIAL FLOW Combines



The Axial Flow concept was new in 1977. After twenty years the single rotor design that eliminated straw walkers and increased the threshing and separating area through the use of centrifugal force is still the same. But the technological advances in the 2100 Series make their cousins of 1978 and 1979 seem like antiques.

PRODUCTIVITY, PERFORMANCE, and PREMIUM GRAIN were the hallmarks of the axial flow combine in 1977 and they still are today - - more so because of the steady productivity and performance improvements, made over the past 20 years.



Hoober People are proud of their association with the Case IH Axial Flow combine since the beginning. Our customers know that our commitment to the Axial flow is based upon our ability to make the Axial Flow combine out perform the competition in all crop conditions.

MAKE YOUR NEXT COMBINE AN AXIAL FLOW COMBINE FROM HOOBERS.

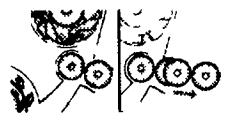
Maximum Power For Your Success

Get a beast of a deal on a new CLASS Jaguar
See your CLASS dealer for details.

The corn cracker can be changed in 5 minutes to switch from corn to hay. The Jaguar's efficient processing produces quality silage for higher milk production



The efficient cutting system has a full width metal detector, 30" wide chevron cutting drum and full width 8-blade accelerator

The unique top-to-back cooling system with rotary air screen assures excellent, clean cooling

Service is easy because compartment covers quickly swing open to provide easy access to the engine and cooling system

The operator can safely sharpen the chopping knives and precisely adjust the shearbar from the driver's seat automatically

J & L Hay-Saver Feeds 20 Cattle

New, improved, round hay-bale feeder feeds large or small hay bales along with square bales. University proven hay savings. This feeder is built of heavy 1¼" pipe and ¼" steel for ring. Available with ¼" steel or treated 3/4" plywood floors. This 1,200 lb. feeder is built to last.

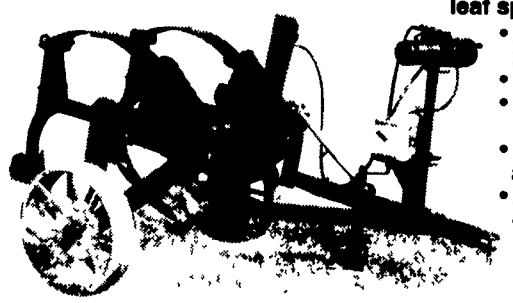
Increased Moisture Improves Crop Yields!

I&J Manufacturing Deep Till Slitter

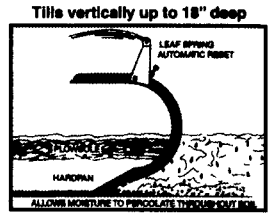
I&J Deep Till Slitter with Tebben automatic reset leaf spring till mechanisms:



- Available in 1 or 2 shank models.
- Provides a 60" cut.
- 12V hydraulic lift is optional.
- 2 shank model weighs approx. 838 lbs.
- Available in 3pt or trailing models.

Shown with optional hydraulic lift

Tills vertically up to 18" deep



With deep tilling, soil is tilled more on the vertical plane than the horizontal, leaving topsoil less disturbed. Commonly done in the fall to catch winter moisture & followed by a light disking in the spring to level the surface for uniform population.

New Loader For Compact Tractors

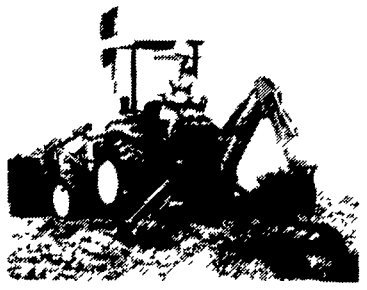
NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The new Model 7308 front-end loader fits the new 25- and 30-series Boomer™ New Holland compact diesel tractors as well as Models 1320, 1520, 1620, 1715, 1720 and 1920 compact tractors.

An integarted parking stand and quick-attach mounting system allow loader mounting or removal in less than five minutes without tools. Double-acting lift cylinders and bucket level indicators are standard. A mounting kit and tractor-connect hoses are provided.

The new loader is controlled by a single joy-stick that mounts on the tractor near the operator for more convenient operation. The frame is reinforced with lower torque tube design for unmatched visibility. Heavily chrome-plated cylinder rods and husky non-rotating pivot pins add reliability.

Heavy-duty buckets, 60 or 68 inches wide, have reversible, replaceable cutting edges.

The combination of this new loader and a compact tractor provides highly maneuverable scraping and loading capability for close-quarters work on dairy and livestock farms, and bulk materials handling in warehouses, nurseries, and landscaping. Its reliable maneuverability also makes it an attractive unit for "stoning in" foundations are subgrades for builders and concrete contractors.



Model 7308 front end loader fits the new 25- and 30 series Boomer™ compact New Holland tractors as well as Models 1320, 1520, 1620, 1715, 1720 and 1920 compact tractors. A single lever joy-stick control mounts on the tractor for easy operation. A quick-attach mounting system allows mounting or removal in minutes without tools.

Case Acquires Sprayer Manufacturer

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation has acquired Gem Sprayers Limited, a privately-owned maker of self-propelled, trailed, and mounted sprayers for agricultural applications.

Gem, based in Lincoln, England, is a supplier of sprayers in England and Ireland.

"Innovation and fast response to market trends have given Gem its leadership position. A continuing commitment to producing top-quality products also contributes to its success," said Jon Carlson, senior vice president and general manager, North American Agricultural Equipment Business Unit, Case Corporation. "Through the global Case IH distribution network we'll expand Gem's presence in the worldwide agricultural application equipment industry."

The Royal Agricultural Society of Engineers recently recognized Gem's product quality and engineering skill by awarding the company the silver medal for design excellence.

"The role spraying equipment plays in the crop production process is becoming increasingly important. Greater environmental awareness and advances in crop genetics are driving demand for technologically-advanced sprayers," said Carlson. "That fits well with technologies we are developing for the rest of our agricultural product line, such as our Advanced Farming System (AFS)."

By integrating new AFS control systems into spraying equipment, sprayers could become an integral part of site-specific farming. These systems would allow farmers and applicators to automatically apply the right chemical of fertilizer in exactly the right spot in the field, while generating an electronic application record. With the trends towards more precise applications and regulatory reporting requirements, using this new technology may be necessary in the future.

The acquisition of Gem is another element of Case's strategy to offer solutions that will make its customers more productive and successful. Earlier this year, Case acquired Agri-Logic, an agricultural software development firm. In June, the company announced a research collaboration with Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. and DowElanco to develop information for site-specific crop production decision-making.

Zeneca Tests Wheat Herbicide

WILMINGTON, Del. — Zeneca Ag Products announced that it is conducting commercial-scale testing of Achieve®, a post-emergence herbicide for grass control in spring and winter wheat, durum, and barley, in the United States this summer.

The company received a federal Experimental Use Permit (EUP) for the applications. Achieve was also granted an EUP for trial applications in 1996.

Achieve controls wild oats, foxtails (pigeongrass), Persian darnel, annual ryegrass and other annual grasses, according to Ed Thiessen, product service manager at Zeneca. It's applied postemergence, and can be tankmixed with several popular broadleaf herbicides. Crop tolerance of the herbicide is excellent, Thiessen said.

Under the EUP, Zeneca is working with growers and custom applicators to treat about 5,000 acres of wheat, durum, and barley in north-central, northwestern, and southern states. The product is also being tested at major land grant universities in the same areas.

Achieve has been registered commercially in Canada for six years and has become the most widely used grass herbicide for cereals there. "It's popular for its effective control of wild oats and other grasses, tankmix flexibility, wide window of application, and crop tolerance," Thiessen said.

Zeneca has submitted a petition to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for a full federal registration for the product. The EPA has designated Achieve a "reduced risk pesticide" because of its favorable toxicological and environmental profile.

DuPont Expands Service Offering

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Dupont Agricultural Products will expand its FarmCare℠ service offering in 1998, providing participating farmers an enhanced service policy, new incentives, and updated qualifications to encourage new farmers to join FarmCare, the company announced.

"FarmCare, and its new elements, are reflective of what farmers have been telling us over the past several years," said Yale Schalk, U.S. marketing manager, DuPont Agricultural Products. "Farmers have been saying that they need more information and better services and tools to help them make even better decisions. FarmCare was designed to meet these needs, and based on what we've seen this year, it's a winner."

Launched in 1997, FarmCare brings farmers together with DuPont and their local retailers to offer a weed and insect control program tailored to the farmer's needs — backed by an enhanced service policy from DuPont. The farmer can also receive safety training materials, business skills development tools, and information to help them cultivate relationships within their communities.

Company Opens Milk Replacer Plant

FRANCONIA (Montgomery Co.) — Select Veal Feeds, Inc. has announced the opening of its new milk replacer manufacturing plant in Franconia. Select Veal Feeds and Marcho Farms, Inc. is a vertically integrated veal production company owned and operated by the Marcho family since 1984 in Harleysville.

The new feed plant started full production on Aug. 1, after a thorough testing of all equipment and systems for two months.

"This is a milestone and a significant commitment to our veal growers and to the industry," said Wayne Marcho, president. The production rate of the new plant is 12 tons per hour and can hold an entire week's production inventory in its 24,000-square-foot area.

In addition to the complete automation of production, bagging and palletizing operations, a unique fat freezing system was researched and developed for the new plant. The special steel frame and insulated wall panel construction design allowed for total environmental control.

The entire plant is air conditioned to maintain a 68- to 70° temperature at all times.

Taurus Announces Area Rep

MEHOOPANY (Wyoming Co.) — Vernon L. Kauffman, Akron, has joined Taurus Service, Inc. as an area representative. Dick Witter, president of Taurus, stated in announcing the employment of Kauffman that "Taurus is proud that Vernon has joined the Taurus family. He has a very good understanding of dairy cattle breeding, is well educated, and has worked within the AI industry. Vernon is personable and has a strong desire to help dairymen profit more. Our goal at Taurus is to provide the best genetics at realistic prices and represent our sire line-up candidly. Vernon will know the strong traits of the Taurus sires and also be able to provide our customers with suggestions as to what the bull may not improve, thus helping breed a more profitable dairy cow that can milk for more lactations."

Kauffman has lived in Lancaster County the past nine years. He was raised on a Mifflin County dairy farm and is a 1970 graduate of Belleville Mennonite High School. He worked for five years in the feed industry and picking up bulk milk. Prior to his employment at Atlantic Breeders Cooperative and most recently Genex as a herdsman and livestock specialist, Kauffman owned and operated Garver Farms in Belleville and maintained a 45-cow registered Holstein herd.

Kauffman is a member of the Lancaster County Holstein Club, Pennsylvania Holstein Association, and Holstein Association USA. He served one term as president of the Mifflin County Holstein Club and two terms as local secretary of Atlantic Dairy Co-op when he was a member.

Kauffman will be serving an area in southeast and south central Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Northern Virginia for Taurus. According to Witter, "Vernon will have primary responsibility for sales within his area selling direct and through Taurus dealers and technicians. In addition, he will be involved with sire selection, sire analysis, and progeny-testing Taurus Sires."

Caterpillar, Claas Announce Joint Venture

PEORIA, Ill. — Caterpillar Inc. (NYSE-CAT) and German-based Claas KGaA announced they have received all necessary approvals and will now form the North American joint venture company Caterpillar Claas America LLC.

The joint venture company will market and eventually manufacture several models of the Lexion line of combine harvesters. The combines are designed to meet North American customer requirements and will be distributed under the Caterpillar trademark.

"This demonstrates Caterpillar's strong commitment to the ag industry and our desire to bring new technology to North American farmers," said Bob Strube, president of Caterpillar Agricultural Products Inc. "It brings together two premier manufacturers with reputations for innovation and market-leading specialization."

"We are excited that North American farmers can now realize the high productivity inherent with Lexion combines," said Theo Freye, general manager of Caterpillar Claas America LLC.

The Claas range of Lexion combines, introduced two years ago in Europe, incorporates the latest in harvesting technology, including automated machine controls and a patented threshing system. During last year's harvest, the combines underwent extensive field testing in North America, producing exceptional results.

Simmental Association Holds Field Day

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. — The Maryland Simmental Association Field Day was held at the Howard County Fairgrounds.

Dr. John Bargeloh, Southern State, manager of ruminant nutrition, was introduced by Rick Lawrence, the local Southern States field sales and tech manager. Bargeloh described mineral utilization in various feeding systems. He concentrated on the utilization of the trace elements in forage and pasture programs.

Ned Sayre of Waffle Hill Farm continued the seminar. The program consisted of explanations of pasture utilization by using electric fencing to rotate pastures, to increase leaf surfaces rather than stem surfaces. Stock-piling fescue growth was described for year-round grazing. Water distribution was described and products were shown to imitate the programs.

The Junior Cattle Show was judged by Ned Sayre. The showmanship contests of three classes were judged by a committee.

Shane Smithson, White Hall, Md., became champion showman.

Judge Sayre selected Pond View Tobassy shown by Shane Smithson in the January 1997 and later class. Shane Smithson was 1st in the November and December 1996 class.

C.F. Alfalfa Autumn, shown by Grant Coleman, Elmer, N.J., won the September-October class. Keith Brown Jr., Joppa, Md. with Folley's Red Sunset Kasey, was at the lead of the July-August class. Geneva of Echo Valley, shown by Tammy Nelson, Forest Hill, Md., won the March class.

Scott Jenkins, Purcelville, Va., showed the lightweight winner.

The annual meeting followed a shrimp and ear corn meal.

The highlight of the meeting was a telephone conference with the American Simmental Association's Chief Executive Officer Jerry Lipsey.

Watersheds To Receive Funds To Clean Up Natural Resource Problems

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Funds soon will be available for agricultural and livestock producers in all watersheds in Berks County in the Tulpehocken, Maidencreek, and Little Swatara to correct natural resource problems, said Randy McCormack, district conservationist for the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

These watersheds in 1997 will receive the following allocation: $141,500 for the Tulpehocken, $121,500 for the Maidencreek, and $121,500 for the Little Swatara Creek Watershed through the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP).

EQIP, a voluntary program, provides financial assistance of up to 75 percent of the costs to install or apply certain conservation practices such as grassed waterways and manure storage structures. Tulpehocken, Maidencreek, and Little Swatara were among 20 watersheds in Pennsylvania that received EQIP funding.

The objectives of the program are to apply conservation practices on Berks County farmland that will reduce sheet, rill, and gully erosion on cropland; reduce over fertilization or nutrients on cropland; and protect surface and ground water from animal waste. This voluntary program will solve LOCAL natural resource problems as identified by the local work group.

The process to select the watersheds, or geographic priority areas, began with local work groups, whose members include representatives form agencies, organizations, and community groups within the watershed, such as the Berks and Lebanon Conservation Districts, Berks and Lebanon Natural Resources Conservation Service, Berks and Lebanon Farm Service Agency, Berks and Lebanon Cooperative Extension Service, Berks County Conservancy, Pennsylvania Game Commission, Tulpehocken Chapter of Trout Unlimited, Berks County Planning Commission, and local farmers.

Each local work group conducted a natural resource needs assessment and developed proposals for watersheds based on these assessments McCormack said. The State Technical Committee — consisting of representatives from agencies, agribusiness and community organizations — reviewed the proposals from across the state and selected watersheds using a rating system based on 26 environmental factors. These factors addressed a wide range of natural resource conditions, including soil erosion and depositing, water quality and quantity, wildlife habitat, wetlands, and grazing lands.

The sign-up period for this project will be held from June 30, 1997 to July 18, 1997. Sign-ups and further information may be obtained at the local Berks County Natural Resources Office (NRCS) or Farm Service Agency (FSA).

A conservation plan is needed for all EQIP contracts, which are five to 10 years in length. NRCS and county conservation district staffs will provide the technical and educational assistance producers need to apply or install conservation practices based on their conservation plan, McCormack. The plan will describe conservation management practices to protect soil, water, air, and related natural resources.

Producers who agree to address the primary conservation concerns within the watershed will be given preference for an EQIP contract. Eligible land includes cropland, forestland and pastureland.

This is how the process works. An agricultural or livestock producer visits his or her NRCS, Conservation District, or FSA office and files an application to be considered for the program. The producer meets with the NRCS representatives to discuss his/her natural resource concerns. The NRCS representatives offer alternative solutions based on the producer's willingness and ability to carry out the conservation plan. All applications will be rated and ranked by the local work group to ensure USDA will receive maximum environmental benefits for each dollar spent.

"USDA is using this process to ensure local people identify their own resource concerns," McCormack said. "However, at the same time, the department wants to ensure its financial and human resources are used to provide the maximum environmental benefits to the local residents."

Urban Sprawl Chief Species Threat

NEW ORLEANS, La. — The nation's plant and animal life are facing an extinction crisis caused largely by the rapid encroachment of suburban communities into rural areas, a top official of the Department of Interior told the National Resource Management Planning Conference here recently.

"We're seeing a tremendous amount of agricultural land being covered over in concrete," said Sam Hamilton, acting southeastern regional director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, an agency of the Interior Department. Hamilton spoke at a conference session that focused on the importance of examining all federal regulations in developing a total resource management plan.

There are approximately 1,100 plant and animal species identified by the Fish and Wildlife Service as endangered or threatened, said Hamilton, adding that loss of habitat is the primary factor placing the species at risk. Approximately 80 percent of the natural habitat of threatened and endangered plants and animals is on private land.

"The future for these species depends upon how well we can provide incentives for private landowners to do the right thing. We want to work with species before they get threatened," Hamilton said.

"We've turned the corner. I hope we've bottomed out in terms of adversarial relationships with landowners. In cases where we've been working with landowners and something happens that affects a species, we're not going to go back and ask the landowner to do more."

Areas where species are at greatest risk include Hawaii, south Texas, Florida, Appalachia, southern California and the Pacific Northwest. However, there are also some recent success stories, including the reintroduction of California condors and saving habitat for desert fish in Texas.

Hamilton said proposals to extend tax credits to landowners who protect wildlife habitat and estate tax reductions that would encourage families to retain farmland could enhance species protection. USDA programs such as the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) and the Wetlands Reserve Program (WRP) are also important tools in species preservation efforts, he said.

Sollenberger Silos Corp.
THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed.

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21ST CENTURY?

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency, this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes

WHEELING
Channeldrain
ROOFING & SIDING

Exclusive drain channel guards against wind, rain and snow...assures dryness.

1. Wide overlap: Increases strength and leak protection at each joint.
2. Wide nailing surface: Makes nailing easier and faster.
3. Drain channel. the exclusive leak-proof system that prevents capillary action, stays weather tight. This Wheeling feature has insured "dry barns" for thousands of farmers over the past 50 years

Buying Income Streams for cash
—CASH ADVANCE PROGRAM—
Production Flexibility Contracts

If waiting for your Production Flexibility Contract payments is limiting your growth or holding you back on your plans, there is now a solution The CASH *NOW PURCHASE PROGRAM allows you to sell your future contract payments for cash dollars today The flexible nature of the program allows you to
- Sell all or part of your contract payments depending on the amount of cash you need now Since this is not a loan, no payments are due directly from you and the cash you receive now does not show up on your books as a loan
- Repurchase any remaining future payments due, if your needs change later
- Raise cash, typically within 30-40 days
- Sell payments on both owned and leased land operations
- Limit your primary responsibility to remaining in compliance with the Production Flexibility Contract Program
- Participate in a program that is deliberately designed to allow you full control of your operation This includes provisions for selling your land, dropping out of the program, buying more qualifying land, and more

To obtain more information and a written price offer, you need to proceed as follows
- Contact us. We will send a one page pricing request form Provide us payment information about your production flexibility contract on the PFC pricing request form Since we can buy all or part of your contract payments, you need to specify the amount of capital you need now We will prepare our offer based on your figures
- Upon acceptance of our offer, we will prepare contract documents for your signature
- Upon receipt of the signed contract documents from you, we will request any additional information needed and submit the necessary document to The Farm Service Agency for their acknowledgement
- Once The Farm Service Agency acknowledgement has been received and other conditions of closing have been met, the agreed upon funds are wired to your account

It's that simple... To inquire further, call Dick Croyle: toll free 1-888-687-8491 office 717-284-3151 - mobile 717-575-5337.

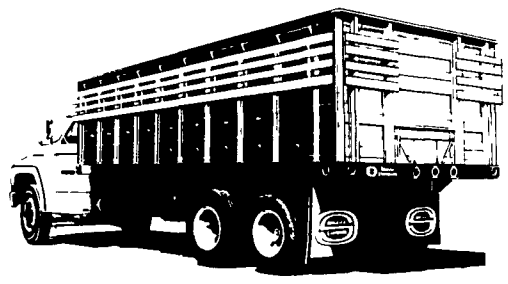
Grain and Livestock BODIES

Greater Capacity, Less Cost... A full 96" Wide



Omaha Standard truck bodies and hoists are built tough to work harder and last longer. That's been our reputation for more than 65 years. Dependable, rugged truck bodies and hoists that do the job day-in and day-out. Whether it's grain handling, livestock hauling or both, you'll appreciate the quality and honest value we've designed into each Omaha Standard body and hoist.

- One-piece roll formed steel sides with built-in tarp rail. Available in 40" and 52" extra capacity heights. All with maximum corrugation for maximum strength.
- The toughest platform in the business – wood, smooth steel, treadplate or steel over wood.
- "Clean Flow" Stakeless Steel Grain Bodies in 52", 60" and 72" heights also available.
- Fourteen conversion hoist models – scissor or stabilized "Olympic" telescopic.
